MYSTERIOUS WOMAN IN BIG FORGERY

POLICE HEAR STORY OF SPECULATION IN FRAMINGHAM NOTES

More Arrests, It Is Said, Are Due in Swindle That Amounts to More Than $300,000—Conspiracy Is Charged.

A mysterious woman financier to-day became the central figure in the $320,000 town of Framingham note forgery as the result of which Former Town Treasurer John E. Lombard and Charles S. Cummings and Edward A. Mead of the American Banking Company have been arrested.

Just wha part this woman played in the swindle, the State police officers are to-day trying to find out. What became of the proceeds of the seven years' forgeries remains one of the mysteries of the case, and it is thought that if this woman can be reached much will be learned.

The woman's name is known to the police. She lives in Boston, dresses well and is an active figure in State street financial offices. The detectives at work on the case declare that in a similar sort of a way she figures as a second Cassie Chadwick in her ability to borrow money from banks.

It was thought that State Officer Edward J. Byrnes, who, with Chief Sullivan, has been engaged on the case, had completed his duty with the arraignment of Lombard. But to-day Byrnes is still in Framingham, and apparently is as busy as ever.

Dominated by Clique.

His presence is accounted for by the rumor that more than one South Framingham man will be called upon to tell what he knows of Lombard's financial dealings for the past ten years. Rumor goes to the extent of saying that the local clique here have known of the forged notes, and have shared in the proceeds of their sales and dominated Lombard throughout. The

SURGICAL EXPERT WHO SAYS GIRL'S THROAT WAS CUT

DR. JOHN GILBERT

SLAYER USED KNIFE WHILE GIRL WAS ALIVE

Dismemberment of Suit Case Victim Began, Expert Says, Before Life Was Extinct. Blood Flowed From Wounds.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 20.—Amelia St. Jean's throat was cut while she was alive, and she bled to death. That was the pitiful fate of the pretty Woonsocket victim of the Fall River-Tiverton tragedy, according to Dr. John Gilbert, one of the highest authorities of the State on surgical questions such as are presented by the present murder mystery.

Dr. Gilbert is a resident of Fall River. He was formerly city physician here and has served the public in various capacities that called for expert medical and surgical knowledge. He is a lecturer at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Boston.

In this connection it will be recalled that it has been established by the contents of Miss St. Jean's stomach, which were examined by Professor Whitney of Harvard, that the girl died about 8 o'clock on Friday afternoon, a week ago. When the parts of her body were found along Rulgarmarsh road, Tiverton, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the next week, they were in a good state of preservation.

"The condition," said Dr. Gilbert, "established that the girl was thoroughly dead before she was dead. If the girl had died a natural death the blood by gravitation would have settled in one minute or less in the body.

"The dismembered sections of the body show that there was no settlement of the blood, according to what the doctors who have examined the parts report. This shows that the girl was bled when she was still alive. This could have been done by severing the veins and the arteries of the neck by cutting the throat. Of course, this may have been done while the girl was under the influence of an anaesthetic.

"Suppose, doctor," he was asked, "the girl's head had been severed five minutes after death, would not the blood have flowed from the body?"

"No, not if it happened one minute after death. The conditions show that she was bled before death."

Hill Was Undertaker's Helper.

Inspector Medley went to Providence to-day to confer with Chief of Police Manches of Tiverton and Attorney-General Greenough of Rhode Island about the transfer of the dismembered remains of the girl from the custody of that State to that of the Fall River police.

It was learned to-day that Hill, who, with Wilfred Thibault, is accused of the murder of the girl, was formerly an undertaker's assistant.

Here is the story of just how the girl died and her body was cut up and disposed of, according to the police theory as set out by Inspector Medley:

"Our evidence is absolutely positive that St. Jean girl came to the office of Professor Hill on Bedford street shortly after she had eaten her dinner Friday afternoon.

"The examination of the stomach of the body of the girl found at Tiverton shows that the food was still in the process of digestion. The operation was evidently unsuccessful, a drug was used in hope of restoring life and the girl passed into a faint.

"Not being a skilled physician, Professor Hill, in my mind, believed that she was dead and was about to dispose of the body. He cut her head off with an axe and proceeded to dismember the other parts of the body.

Packed Body in Box.

"Packing the torso in the box found Sunday afternoon, and the remainder of the body in the telescope bag, he washed away all evidences of the dismemberment from the quarters and then removed about 7 o'clock in the evening hired the horse and Concord wagon from the stable of Michael Flynn.

"Flynn states positively that Hill offered a rig from him early on the evening of a week ago Friday and did not return until an hour or so before midnight.

"It is my opinion," continued Inspector Medley, "that Hill, after being seen by the fruit man carrying the box out on the wharf, then drove down some side road in the country, finally passing Bliss Four Corners. He started to distribute the dismembered parts of the girl's body somewhere along the lonely country roads.

"Probably arriving back in Fall River in time to put the horse up at 11 o'clock, he again went to his office, wrapped the head up in the St. Jean girl's skirt and with the rest of her clothing put it into his basket. He must have taken the head out on the Bay street line and spent the night in the house thicket which borders the Bay street boulevard. There burying the head and attempting to dispose of the clothing.

"The car conductor and motorman are

HALE CALLS ON MAYOR TO BARE CORRUPTION

Alderman Matthew Hale this afternoon put it squarely up to Mayor Hibbard to make public the name of the Good Government Association member of the board accused by a "friend" of the Mayor of offering to sell his vote.

The G. G. A. members, who are all Republicans, conferred to-day upon the sensational story to the effect that one of their number had written Mayor Hibbard offering to vote for the confirmation of Messrs. Andrews and Richardson as principal assessors provided a certain man was appointed to a position in the city service.

Following the conference Alderman Hale issued a statement which, it is understood, embodies the views of all the Good Government members. Mayor Hibbard was not at City Hall when the statement was issued, and Secretary White refused to comment upon the matter. Here is Alderman Hale's statement:

In this morning's papers "a friend of the Mayor," who apparently had not the courage to have his own name used, accuses one of the Republican Good Government Aldermen of offering to vote for the confirmation of Andrews and Richardson as principal assessors in exchange for the appointment of a certain man to a certain position. In substance, he accuses one of us of being willing to sell our vote on an important public matter. This is too serious a charge to be passed over. In justice to the Republican members of the board the Mayor should either affirm or deny that this statement of his "friend" represents his own sentiments; he should then disclose the name of the Alderman in question, and should produce and make public any evidence which he may have relating to the matter.

George W. Beard, a retired sea captain, seventy-eight years of age, was found dead in a chair in his room o nthe second floor of the Merrimac House, Merrimac street, West End, this afternoon, with a bullet hole in the left side of his head. Captain Beard had boarded and roomed at the Merrimac House thirty-five years. The police of Station Three think that he had a family, but they do not know where they reside.

At Macau the Portuguese gunboat Patria was lifted from her moorings and carried up the Canton River and stranded in a rice field. Damage in the interior is said to have been nearly nearly heavy.

'STAGE CHILD OF CHURCH;' SAYS AKED

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The church is the mother of the stage," declared Rev. Charles F. Aked, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, in an interview today. "The mystery and mentality plays produced under the auspices of the church in the middle ages were the forerunners of the drama of to-day.

"An actor in a police court means no more than a clergyman in a divorce court, he says both of these things in our civilization. I regret to say, but it is unfair to judge a whole class, whether of actors or clergymen, by one sorry specimen.

Dr. Aked, who is the English clergyman called to preside over the great church of whose Sunday School John D. Rockefeller, Jr., conducts his famous class and of which the elder Rockefeller is a ruling, was moved to give his views of the church and stage by an erroneous report of one of his recent sermons in which the minister, in quoting his own words, was made to take "A patronizing, pharisaical and altogether unpleasant view of the theatrical profession."

Has Friends on Stage.

"Some of the kindest, the best and the most generous people I have ever known," said Dr. Aked, "are in the theatrical profession. Beerbohm Tree, Ellen Terry and Lewis Waller I am proud to number among my personal friends.

"I do not feel competent to pronounce an opinion as to the relative morality of the men of the world and the actor, but I loathe with all my soul the pharisaic attitude, which would place a social or a moral ban on actors or actresses. The professedly Christian people do assume this self-righteous air toward the theatrical profession, as though it were without moral sense. They have only themselves to blame if people so despised live down to the reputation which has been ascribed to them.

"For twenty years I have been preaching a broad, inclusive and catholic gospel. In fact, I have been a storm centre for half a lifetime and always because I have preached a gospel too broad, too liberal, too catholic for many of my colleagues, so it may be many of my critics. I take all that as part of the day's work. And the more narrow minded, straight laced you are reared, pharisee people alone are the more certain I am I have said something which needed to be said."

Quotes from Macauley.

"In my sermon I asked: 'Don't you know that there may be no difference between the life of a pillar of the church and an actor except that the actor is more honest, more frank and open in what he does?'

"I borrowed Macauley's illustration of the red-haired man. If every red-haired man was treated as an outcast, as a thing and as impure the result would be that some red-haired girl would be driven to such lives, but the people who fastened the stigma upon them would be responsible."

BAY STATE LABOR BILL IS DEBATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The question of endorsing the fifty-four hours a week bill now before the Massachusetts legislature was taken up by the United Textile Workers of America at its convention today. A fifty-six hour bill was passed at the last session, but is not yet in effect. A strong faction in the convention believes it would be inexpedient to press the other bill at this time, as it might jeopardize legislative support, which brought about the passage of the fifty-six hour bill.

ANGRY CLASH OF COUNSEL IN STEEL TRIAL

District Attorney Hill to-day for the second time since the commencement of the steel trial accused Attorney Charles F. Choate, Jr., of coaching a witness. The accusation precipitated a clash between the two men, which lasted for some time and caused the sensation of the trial.

The witness was Charles N. Pitts, secretary of the New England Structural Company, who resumed the stand to-day for the seventh consecutive day. He was asked a trivial question by Mr. Hill, and Mr. Choate said that the question was poorly worded. The District Attorney objected that Mr. Choate's explanation was a method of coaching the witness, so he said:

"That is an entirely improper way for you to make suggestions to the witness, Mr. Choate."

Hot Clash of Counsel.

Mr. Choate flushed and replied:

"These remarks by Mr. Hill are coming altogether too frequently and this method by the District Attorney of trying his case by reflection on myself and other counsel for the defendants is an unheard of practice in this Commonwealth."

The District Attorney then said:

"These suggestions by counsel for the defence to the witness, whether they be intentional or not, cannot fail to have their effect upon the witness."

Mr. Choate jumped to his feet, plainly angered, and said:

"The District Attorney's constant repetition of this statement is a gross imputation and I don't propose to sit and listen to them."

This ended the clash and Mr. Pitts was then asked if he had searched for the check books and receipts which he promised to look for yesterday. He replied that he had, but could not find them. Mr. Hill then asked:

"Did you bring the books of the New England Structural Company with you?" The witness replied that he had not, but that they would be there later. Mr. Choate then said:

Books Are Produced.

"I object to the District Attorney's use of the phrase the other books."

Mr. Hill replied that he didn't use that phrase and added, "If you will listen more closely, Mr. Choate, you will not reach false conclusions."

Mr. Choate replied that he followed the District Attorney as closely as he deserved to be followed.

At this point the books of the New England Structural Company were produced. Attorney Choate said that they were produced merely for convenience, and referred to their being used as evidence. Judge Harris declared that the witness might use them only to refresh his memory. He was then asked to see if they contained any reference to money being paid the information bureau, or Boston Agreement, by the New England Structural Company. He replied that they did.

ANGRY CLASH OF COUNSEL IN STEEL TRIAL

SUSPECT IS JAILED FOR BURGLARIES

In William Mullens, thirty years of age, also a boxing, myth appearing man, the police of Cambridge to-day believe they have captured the man responsible for the series of robberies in that city for the past two months.

"I am a stenographer," said Mullens, if that is his name, to Judge Charles Almy in the Cambridge District Court to-day when arraigned charged with breaking and entering the homes of Robert Farquhar, No. 94 Garfield street, North Cambridge, and Charles H. Forgate in Raymond street.

"A man in my position ought to have $25 a week. I have not always been a thief. But when I came here from my home, which is in Quebec, I sought to get work at my business and was offered $5 or $6 a week to start with. That made me become a thief. I could not live on such starvation wages."

Mullens denied that he was guilty of the two robberies, but as the police found several pairs of cuff links and stick pins which Mr. Farquhar to-day identified as his own, Judge Almy held the man in $2,500 bail which he could not furnish.

Mullen's arrest came through the description furnished the police by some sharp-eyed Cambridge boys. They saw the man coming out of the Fosdick house on Monday afternoon. They told the police when questioned about the man and what he looked like.

Last night Inspector Michael Shields of the Robbery Service and Inspectors Jenkins and Nealon of Cambridge arrested Mullens at Tremont and Warrenton streets, South End, this city. When he was searched the police found several articles of jewelry and false keys.

Today the police are scanning much of the $5,000 worth of jewelry and diamonds stolen from the Farquhar home in South End pawnshops.

The police say that Mullen's method of operation was to take a pad of paper and to skip boldly up to the front door of houses in the wealthiest resident sections of Cambridge. There he would make a pretense of taking the address of some person of leading orders. He would find out if anyone was in the house and if not would use his false keys and enter.

LOMBARD NEIGHBORS UNDER SUSPICION IN BIG TOWN FORGERIES

circulators of the rumor are careful not to name the men of whom they speak.

A feature of the case which men regard as peculiar is the readiness with which bail was secured for Lombard. It is said that not less than a dozen offers of surety for his appearance were offered, two of the offers being made by agents of surety companies.

The surety company officers were the first made, but Judge Kingsbury declined to entertain them, saying that he must have individual responsibility.

It is established that some of those who volunteered bail were urged to do so by men who preferred that Lombard should be at liberty, pending trial, rather than in jail, where their conversations with him might attract attention.

Town Faces Bankruptcy Fear.

The town of Framingham faces the fear of bankruptcy to-day. With forged notes aggregating $325,000 already presented, there is the recognized possibility of others for unknown amounts to come in. It is the fear of the officers of the town that Treasurer Lombard lost track of the amounts for which he forged the various notes, and that others are held by banks throughout New England.

In the words of one of the officers of the town: "Good only knows how many forgeries were committed. Allow me to make a prediction. When this affair is unravelled it will be found that its parallel was never known in Massachusetts. However, I am confident that the town will not lose a single cent. The authorities now have a list of all notes that do not appear on the town books."

Question of Liability.

The confidence of the officer above quoted in the town's exemption from loss is not shared unanimously, in view of the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States holding responsible the city of Newburyport, for $60,000 in obligations contracted in a manner similar to the Lombard forgeries. The point that as the seal of the town was impressed on all the forged notes they may prove to be collectible.

In that event the town would find itself in a bad financial situation, even if the total of the forgeries does not exceed the $325,000 now known of. Already this year the town has borrowed $85,000 on authorized notes, while paying off only $30,000 of its funding debt, thus leaving a net increase of debt of $40,000. The present floating debt is $158,200, which is considered large for so small a town.

While Selectmen Walsh and Stockwell, who had a long conference with State Policeman Byrnes on the case, would not disclose what had been revealed to them, it is understood that they had before them private memoranda kept by Mr. Lombard indicating the gross amount of the forgeries to have been $325,000.

Town Auditor Fred L. Oaks is one of those who are not optimistic as to future revelations. "There will be forgeries, or any number of notes yet forthcoming," he said. "Since Mr. Lombard left town it is likely to hold back until the trial is well along."

Sydney A. Phillips, counsel for Lombard, does not share in the belief that the town will be liable for the amount of the forged notes. Specifically in this estate the town is not responsible for a note unless it bears the signatures of a majority of the selectmen. The notes forged by Lombard are without any selectmen's signature.

The two latest notes presented are held by the East Weymouth Savings Bank and are made for $10,000 and $15,000, respectively. They were brought to Framingham by John E. Hayward, treasurer of that institution.

Two for Unknown Amounts.

Two other offers at the Town Hall, who admitted that they had with them notes which were pronounced forgeries, declined to reveal the names of the holders or the amounts in which the notes were drawn.

The most prominent is well-known in his line, and has not made the rapid recuperation which his physician, Dr. Lewis M. Palmer, expected. He is suffering with nervous exhaustion, and remains in the same condition in which he lay when court was held in his bed room and he was formally arraigned in the charge of forgery before Judge Kingsbury of the District Court.

The Selectmen have tried to interview him, but on each occasion they found Dr. Palmer, the interview was not complete. "Mr. Lombard," said Major Dumas, "would talk with me for four or five minutes at a time; then he would go all to pieces. But we have the feeling that he will be given a rest for a time he will reveal the entire matter."

FORGE AGENTS HELP STATE AS CHARITY DUTY

The State's duty toward dependent and unfortunate children and the attitude the authorities should assume in making the parents pay in part for the support of their children in State institutions, was discussed by leaders in charities and child welfare work at the first meeting to-day of the Massachusetts State Conference of Charities.

David F. Tilly, president of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Boston, presided at the morning meeting.

Pleading for the wider use of the probation system, by which a majority of petty law breaking by the husband may not fall entirely on the wife and children while the husband rests up at Deer Island, Miss Alice L. Shillaber, secretary of Boston Associated Charities, declared that it was not the family of the man who commits serious offences which comes to dependency, but the family of the man who gets slight sentences and that it was the fault of a system which will actually send to Deer Island eighteen times in three years, while a family starves at home.

"When it is possible for a man who has never supported his family, and has abused his wife on numerous occasions, to be paid not to have been without business for a year, to be sentenced for but sixty or thirty days, is it not time for the judge and the social workers of the state to get together to devise some method of individual treatment for such cases?" asked Miss Shillaber yet we lack immunity enough to put them into practice.

James J. Fee, superintendent of the division of Minor Wards, of the State Board of Charity, declared that more stringent laws making parents who by neglect have made children dependent bear in part for their support. Other speakers were Miss Sarah C. Whitcomb, secretary of the Boston Associated Charities; William H. Pear and S. H. Wright of New Bedford.

Two New Wine Cups Invented by Kaiser.

POTSDAM—The Kaiser has invented two new wine cups, of which the following are the recipes. He labelled the first pineapple cup a la Africa.

Take off the top. Scoop out the meat. Place the fruit in a silver stand such as is used for round bottomed soda water bottles. Fill with champagne and replace the top with the green leaves. Then put on ice and serve direct from the ice chest."

The second cup is called "Count Zeppelin cup," and is made as follows:

Take two bottles of French wine, one Chateau d'Yquem and one Pontac, also a bottle of Cognac—all three must be good old stock—and boil them together. When boiling, add wineglass full of Benedictine and a small glass of Angostura bitters, let it cool and then put on ice. Serve in large, long glasses, three-quarters filled with broken ice. Suck through straws.

Camphor a Pneumonia Cure.

BERLIN—German scientists are much interested in what is said to be a new cure for pneumonia, discovered by Dr. August Seibert of St. Francis Hospital in New York. Camphor is the remedy used by Dr. Seibert. He has had unprecedented success. He believes from his experience, he says, that the action of the drug is two-fold. It stimulates. It kills the germ. He has used it, he says, not only in frank, uncomplicated pneumonia, but also for pneumococcal empyema and pericarditis—inflammation of the membrane of the heart complicated with pus in the lungs. Every one of the twenty-one pneumonia cases treated with camphor by Seibert made, he says, are complete recoveries.

WOMAN OF 75 FIGHTS FENCE

SOUTHBRIDGE, Oct. 20.—The town folk are eagerly watching the outcome of the fight between Mrs. Estes Gamache and the thirteen fence builders of the American Optical Company.

In spite of her 75 years Mrs. Gamache succeeded in frustrating the attempts of the workmen to dig post holes for more than three hours, by jumping into the holes as soon as they were dug. When the workmen spread out, however, she was compelled to give up the unequal struggle and withdraw to the house. The fence is being built to-day. She says that she will carry the case to the high courts.

Mrs. Gamache objects to the fence because it cuts off the driveway to the rear of her house.

PEARY AFTER ESKIMO WITH COOK AT POLE

HARPSWELL, Me., Oct. 20.—Commander Robert E. Peary to-day at his home on Eagle Island, Casco Bay, admitted that he had said that he is going to send north for the two Eskimos who Dr. Frederick Cook says accompanied him to the Pole. When he proposes to do this the explorer will not state. He admits that he said that he is going to pay the expense of the undertaking and not to wait until Cook sends for the men.

The commander refused to be drawn into the Cook-Bell-Mc. McKinley dispute, and he refused to say anything about Mott Henson's lecture in New York.

Peary, it was understood, was exhausted from the effects of his last polar cruise and the worry caused by his controversy with Dr. Cook, was never better in his life. His home on Eagle Island is filled with guests, but who they are is being preserved a secret from the public. They may be scientists or official visitors or they may be mere social friends.

Two or three days ago the commander said that he was expecting a summons to New York and would go at once, and that he was prepared to go. Since that time none has come and he is still lingering on Eagle Island.

DANES REFUSE TO WAIVE CLAIM ON DR. COOK'S PROOF

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 20.—The council of the Faculty of Philosophy to-day refused to allow the records of Dr. Frederick A. Cook regarding his North Pole trip to be examined by any other body first. In reply to a request from the American Geographical Society the council to-day cabled:

"The council of the University of Copenhagen is quite sensible of the honor to comply with your request."

The council, however, firmly held to his promises to submit his proofs to the Danes before any other examination of them is made.

Knud Rasmussen says he is willing to go to America alone or with Cook's Eskimos to testify to Cook's behalf.

The university of Copenhagen to-day cabled to Dr. Cook at New York as follows: "We shall be able to send your original observations and instruments."

Two New Wine Cups Invented by Kaiser.

POTSDAM—The Kaiser has invented two new wine cups, of which the following are the recipes. He labelled the first pineapple cup a la Africa.

Take off the top. Scoop out the meat. Place the fruit in a silver stand such as is used for round bottomed soda water bottles. Fill with champagne and replace the top with the green leaves. Then put on ice and serve direct from the ice chest."

The second cup is called "Count Zeppelin cup," and is made as follows:

Take two bottles of French wine, one Chateau d'Yquem and one Pontac, also a bottle of Cognac—all three must be good old stock—and boil them together. When boiling, add wineglass full of Benedictine and a small glass of Angostura bitters, let it cool and then put on ice. Serve in large, long glasses, three-quarters filled with broken ice. Suck through straws.

Camphor a Pneumonia Cure.

BERLIN—German scientists are much interested in what is said to be a new cure for pneumonia, discovered by Dr. August Seibert of St. Francis Hospital in New York. Camphor is the remedy used by Dr. Seibert. He has had unprecedented success. He believes from his experience, he says, that the action of the drug is two-fold. It stimulates. It kills the germ. He has used it, he says, not only in frank, uncomplicated pneumonia, but also for pneumococcal empyema and pericarditis—inflammation of the membrane of the heart complicated with pus in the lungs. Every one of the twenty-one pneumonia cases treated with camphor by Seibert made, he says, are complete recoveries.

PARIS—Elaine Whitney Hoff, the daughter of John Jacob Hoff, manager of the Bedford Petroleum Company, in Paris branch of the Standard Oil Company, was married to Albert Labouchere, son of Edward Labouchere of Amsterdam, at the American church, in the Rue Berri. Dr. Goodrich, the pastor of the church, officiated. Among those present at the ceremony were Ambassador White, Consul-General Mason, Marquis and Marquise Emodles, the Comte and Comtesse Pourtales and Baron von der Goltz. The bride's mother gave her a check for a million.

Encourage Hawaiian Settlers.

HONOLULU—A proclamation calling a special session of the Territorial Legislature to convene November 8 to consider amendments to the organic act of Hawaii has been issued by Governor Frear. Among the changes recommended are amendments to the land laws to encourage settlers to take up homesteads and increased pay for legislators and Federal officials of the Territory. The Governor desires that no strict public lands so that any single homesteader may take up to eighty acres.

Kaiser Applauds Caruso.

BERLIN—The Kaiser led the applause at Caruso's brilliant performance in "Carmen" at the Royal Opera House. The Kaiserin and Crown Prince were also present. Caruso was in glorious voice and received an ovation unprecedented in local operatic history. The honors of the evening were shared by an American, Miss Frances Ross, as Carmen. Caruso's first rose mad. Seats are selling at $30 each. Caruso receives $7,500 for three appearances.

Look Out for French Sausage!

PARIS—A member of the Pure Food Congress now in session here says that much of the Italian, German and French dried sausage commonly used in hors d'oeuvres is made of the flesh of horses and donkeys. "There is no objection to this in principle," he added, "but in the case of the flesh of diseased horses, dogs and cats is so used, and more stringent measures should be taken to prevent his passing."

Kelley, in cross-examining Higgins, asked questions that the witness refused to answer, and finally turned upon him with: "Now, Mr. Higgins, I want the truth; don't equivocate." Judge Wentworth objected to this remark and the rebuke followed. Remorse got six months and appeal.

THERE'S NO "REVOLT" IN CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH, SAYS FARLOW

Alfred Farlow, manager of the publication society of the Christian Science church, to-day denied that the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York, was in rebellion against the Mother Church. He declared that the board of inquiry in New York, if it was conducting an investigation of conditions growing out of the rebuke of Mrs. Augusta Stetson and seventeen practitioners there, was making an inquiry about affairs of the branch church and not the Mother Church administration.

Dispatches from New York were to the effect that the trustees of the New York Christian Science church appointed a committee of inquiry to investigate the charges brought by the Mother Church against Mrs. Stetson and several other prominent members, including the first and second readers.

These dispatches said that the New York church was preparing to resist the Mother Church. It is said that the committee on inquiry is made up of members who are Mrs. Stetson's absolute supporters. Hugh Darle, one of those said to be under the ban of the Mother church, is said to be the committee. Mr. Farlow in his statement says:

By ALFRED FARLOW.

I have read the New York dispatch describing a meeting of a "committee of inquiry," appointed by the trustees of First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York city. I see nothing in the report that would bolster "rebellion" on the part of the New York church. The matter under consideration dealing with several members of that body certainly demands their attention, and we ought to expect that they will have the proper consideration, and that the New York church will profit by the findings of the Mother Church.

There has been considerable speculation in the press as to what this investigating committee will do, and I have been credited with having said that it did not matter what the committee did "its smooth natters over, the incident is closed so far as the Mother Church is concerned."

These were not my words. What I said was in substance that there was no evidence so far that the New York church had any intention of resenting the findings of the Mother Church.

It is my opinion that if the New York church has appointed an investigating committee it is not for the purpose of investigating the Mother Church, but for the purpose of investigating themselves—in other words, to see that the inquiry and study going to proceed in order to maintain their position as loyal Christian Scientists.

Despite the speculation regarding "rebellion" or "division," it is my personal opinion that this whole affair will simply result in purging the New York church of any erroneous beliefs or practices which may be entertained, and that this salutary influence will extend over the entire Christian Science field. The Mother Church is in no way personal fight. It is simply doing its duty in the enforcement of its by-laws and in its insistence that those who assume to teach and practice Christian Science shall do so consistently.

THE BOY WHO PLAYS AFTER DARK---NO. 4

By HERBERT KAUFMAN

HE doesn't "line 'em out" over the shortstop's head or kick the pigskin to goal; he doesn't throw a fishing pole over his shoulder and go whistling down a country lane to the perch pond and the swimming hole—are lamps light different games than sunshine.

His playfellows aren't the sort with whom you'd like YOUR boys to roam—they know too much that should be foreign to them—the morbid banal phases of life from which you protect YOUR lads as you guard them from physical infection.

All day long his feet go stumbling over the office, store and factory treadmill. He is a pitiful HUMAN COG in the wheel that is turning his boyhood's promise into your manhood's profit. His TO-DAY belongs to you—don't take his TO-MORROW with it.

He doesn't know how many dreams are worth dreaming—how many hopes are worth the yearning. His muscles are flabby and his mind is shrivelling from disuse. He is STARVED of exercise, books and ethics—all the helpings which the Y. M. C. A. COULD extend to him if the Y. M. C. A. could only extend ITSELF.

No matter what latent seeds of ability are in him, or what basic physical strength he possesses, he is hopelessly handicapped if he is not taught how to use and develop the natural resources which he owns.

The Y. M. C. A. isn't as big as the Y. M. C. A.'s USEFULNESS—not one-tenth big enough, not one-hundredth big enough, its ambition to extend is as great as its inability to expand. It wan't give enough boys a chance because too many men who have had their chance own bad memories.

How about you? How much can you give for the "boys who play after dark?" How much WILL you give? A month's cigar money may mean a career for some little fellow. Sit down and figure a bit.

If you're rich, send in as much as you OUGHT to contribute—if you're not, as much as you can AFFORD to give.

This is the fourth article in the Y. M. C. A. series by Mr. Kaufman. The fifth article, "Suppose you come to Boston," will be published in the AMERICAN to-morrow. The first article was published in the SUNDAY AMERICAN. Copies of the AMERICAN containing previous articles may still be obtained at the AMERICAN office.

$10,000 FROM FOSS TO FUND FOR Y. M. C. A.

MEN IN THE MAKING: SOME SAMPLES OF Y. M. C. A. WORK

CASE NO. 3.—He was a hatmaker by trade, tall, slim and diffident. He entered the Association institute for no particular reason other than he was lonely. He frequently talked with the secretary and educational director, who gave him a broader view of life, and he determined to make something of himself. Courses in English, civics, history, mathematics and science followed each other in regular succession, until finally this grammar school graduate found himself capable of entering college. Then came the question, What should he do his life work. Of a religious turn of mind and interested in a humanitarian problem through the advice of the secretary, he determined to enter Princeton Theological Seminary. He did so. He was a leader in his school, graduated, and to-day is the pastor of a large, flourishing Presbyterian church. It all came through his happening into the association building and meeting men whose advice was sound.

The proposed new and larger building will make more of this work possible. The project needs your help now.

When a gift of $10,000 was announced at the Y. M. C. A. luncheon to-day to the report of the committees on the big building project there was a cheer which could be heard almost over on Beacon Hill. When a few moments later the chairman of that committee announced that the gift came from Eugene N. Foss the first cheer was outdone and everybody smiled, as it seemed a certainty that at least an equal sum would be forthcoming from the other side of the problem fight.

The total raised to-day was $34,221 and that brought the grand total for the four days to $202,285. Four days elapsed and ten to go and almost half the sum of $500,000 as good as in the bank.

Another subscription which caused cheering was $1,000 from Clarence W. Barton of the Boston News Bureau.

Flagler Unable to Help.

H. M. Flagler of the Standard Oil company sent a letter wishing success, but regretted that the $175,000 new Y. M. C. A. building he had recently given to Tampa, Fla., had exhausted that particular fund. Among those present were J. A. Sedgwick, treasurer of the Fore River Ship Building Company and Theophilus King of Quincy.

The feature of the day, next to the Fox subscription, the third in magnitude so far, was the work of the young men's committee. They are making their rivals hustle.

The $60,000 gift that now heads the list of contributions is in memory of Samuel Johnson, a former president of the Y. M. C. A., and one of the most earnest workers for its benefit. The money was largely contributed by members of the Johnson family, who felt that it was exactly what he would have done had he been there to do it. It was the first story for the fund, which is now growing to splendid proportions, and followed the first dinner given in the interests of the cause.

There was little surprise when Jacob P. Bates of the firm of Cobb, Bates and Yerxa, grocers, gave $20,000 to the fund. The size of the contribution was somewhat staggering, but Mr. Bates has always been a liberal contributor to this work and one of the most ardent champions of a wider field for Y. M. C. A. endeavor.

Enthusiasm Grows Daily.

The fourth day of the wonderful Y. M. C. A. short-term building campaign shows undiminished effort on the part of the several committees and enthusiasm growing in all circles of Greater Boston and beyond.

No more interesting study in modern life can be found than one finds daily at this luncheon. There come the very flower of manhood in a great American city; one finds the man just leaving boyhood and youth with all the go and zest of his age, nobble life and on to the dignified banker and merchant. There one great blood need is to fill the great civic need of an enlarged membership and field of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The stories told by the members of the many committees are more than interesting. Some of them have revealed a depth of understanding of the scope of the movement in neighborhoods where men of small incomes live that is all creditable to the intelligence of the community.

Great Help to Boston.

All see in the plan to build a fine Y. M. C. A. building a great help for the Boston to come, while in the methods taken by the men behind the movement there is that snap and enterprise gained in touch with the brightest and best men of a dozen other progressive municipalities which imparted almost as it were contagiously to the more conservative minds in Boston must not be lacking.

With infinite care, yet never for a moment abating in their eagerness, the men under Mr. Speare and Mr. Ward are making marvels every minute of the days that fill out their fortnight of effort.

MRS. AUREL BATONYI IS GRANTED DIVORCE FROM SOCIETY WHIP

MISS BREVAIRE.

Miss Beatrice Brevaire, "Fencing Girl" in Batonyi Case.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Frances Burke-Roche Batonyi won her suit for divorce against Aurel Batonyi, the society whip, before Judge O'Gorman in the Supreme Court to-day. The sealed verdict handed in by the jury late last evening found Batonyi guilty on one count of misconduct with Miss Margaret Allen, otherwise Mrs. Lillian Lawrence, in her apartments at No. 226 Central Park West. On all other counts in the charge, including that concerning Miles Brevaine, the "fencing girl," they found Batonyi not guilty.

The single count suffices for Mrs. Batonyi's victory, however, and in the regular course of procedure she will be given a decree. This will be interlocutory and she must wait three months after it is signed before she receives a final decree of divorce.

ALL "1915" SHOW SPACE IS TAKEN

With 192 exhibits allotted in the "1915" Boston Exposition, which opens November 1 in the old Art Museum, the committee finds that all the available space has been taken.

The Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis will have one of the graphic displays which are being made in various parts of the country for the education of the public in regard to the white plague.

The educational and social department will have exhibits from many of the schools, colleges and other organizations. Radcliffe and Wellesley colleges will combine to show women's share in work. Technology will illustrate the work of fourteen departments, and the Eastern Kindergarten Association will have classes of children. The Massachusetts Commission for the Blind will have blind people present, who will demonstrate their ability as artisans.

SALVATIONISTS MAY COLLECT FUNDS

By a decision of the Board of Overseers of the Poor the officers and members of the Salvation Army will be permitted to solicit money in the streets of Boston. The authority under which the board acted in the matter was a special act passed by the Legislature for June, 1907, which provided that Police Commissioner O'Meara has agreed with the Board in the matter.

$300,000 IN DRAPER WILL FOR CHARITY

About three hundred thousand dollars are left to Boston charities by the will of Charles H. Draper of Brookline, which was allowed to-day in the Norfolk Probate court at Dedham by Judge James J. Flint. The property consists of $175,000 personal and $15,000 real estate.

A few societies outside of Boston profit by the will, but the bulk of the fortune is divided among organizations in Boston which care for young men and children.

After making several minor legacies and dividing $10,000 among relatives and friends, the residue, amounting to about $200,000, is left in trust the income to be divided in equal parts among the follow ing societies:

Boston Young Men's Christian Association, Boston Young Men's Christian Union, Young Women's Christian Union, Boston Home for Aged Women, Brookline Sunday School Society, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Boston Kindergarten for the Blind, Boston Children's Hospital, New England Hospital for Women and Children, City Missionary Society, Boston Industrial School for Crippled and Defective Children, Boston Floating Hospital are beneficiaries in a trust fund of $9,000.

Other beneficiaries are: Sixteen former members of Company B in the Ford National Bank of Boston, $1,000 each; two former members in the First National Bank of Brookline, $100 each; four others in the same bank, $200 each; First Unitarian Church of Watland, $10,000; Trinitarian Congregational Church, Wayland, $5,000. The splendid private library of Mr. Draper goes to the Wayland public library.

The executors, Wallace S. Draper, George H. Worthley, and Edward E. Blodgett of Brookline, qualified and gave bond in $750,000 each.

YANKEE SHIP SEIZED; CRISIS IN NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The seizure of a United States merchant vessel by the revolutionists makes the Nicaraguan situation to-day one of extreme gravity. Although it is known that the State department is inclined favorably toward the revolutionists, unless reprisals are quickly forthcoming from them Washington will have no alternative but to take a hand in the contest.

The vessel seized is the Yuin, which had been leased to the old government. The ship is really, however, the property of the Emery Company. The force of General Estrada, the leader of the uprising, took possession of it in the belief that they were seizing government property.

MISS ST. JEAN DIED BY KNIFE, WHILE IN FAINT, SAY POLICE

were they saw him there early Saturday morning with his baskets. The St. Jean girl's corsets were found Saturday afternoon by the weavers. These pieces of evidence establish the fact without a doubt that the crime was committed as I have pointed out, Friday night."

Where Did Girl Eat Last?

The contents of the stomach of Amelia St. Jean do not agree with what she ate at luncheon on Friday a week ago, according to the police today. Mrs. Eva Lamoreux, told the police today:

"Amelia and I ate luncheon together," said the aunt. "She ate bread and butter and potatoes. There were some bananas in the house and I do not know whether she ate any of them or not. I left the house before she did."

The analysis of the stomach's contents showed the presence of bread and butter and potatoes, as well as carrots, indicating that the victim had eaten vegetable soup. There was no vegetable soup in the Lamoreux house, and the police today began a hunt about the city to see if Miss St. Jean did not get some soup before she went to Hill's office.

The defense will use this state of things to contend that Amelia St. Jean is not the victim whose dismembered body was picked up in Tiverton.

Painful Dyspepsia

A Form of Indigestion Caused by Gastric Irritation from Undigested Food in the Stomach.

No kind of dyspepsia is better marked than that known as "painful indigestion," and it is also a very common affection. Pain, generally of a dull character, is felt after meals, and along with the pain sovereign at the pit of the stomach often exists, and in some cases the soreness is permanent. The tenderness is commonly restricted to a spot in the middle line of the body, immediately below the breast-bone.

It often extends upward under the bone, which consequently feels sore on pressure, or the tenderness is felt toward either side. This tenderness is commonly associated with an unpleasant feeling of heat—"a burning sensation"—so it is termed by some persons. There is also a "gnawing" and "dragging," as well as various other anomalous sensations complained of after taking food, and generally within an hour after eating.

As might be supposed the intensity of the symptom is proportionate to the quantity and quality of the meal. When the stomach is empty, a sensation of craving or emptiness gives most trouble. This often causes a false appetite, which, by inducing the person to eat heartily aggravates the sufferings. Taste generally causes much annoyance, heartburn, watery brash, acidity, nausea and headache are sad infrequent attendants. The tongue is usually coated with fring; a mere inspection of this organ the condition of the stomach can often be correctly told.

It is a common error with persons who suffer from stomach pain caused by indigestion and gastric irritation to use such drugs as chlorodyne, Hoffmann's Anodyne and other "pain killers" for its relief. Such treatment is a great mistake. While these drugs afford temporary relief to the dyspeptic pain, they have no effect whatever in removing the cause.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS remove the cause. By completely digesting all the food in the stomach, there is no further possibility of the occurrence of this disagreeable form of dyspepsia with its painful manifestations, and other concurrent symptoms. All of the irritation of the stomach-lining and stomach-nerves as the result of the undigested food lying in that organ and undergoing fermentation and decomposition, is quickly done away with.

But not only is the form of dyspepsia which is accompanied by pain cured through the use of these digestive tablets, but also every other form of indigestion, as there are many kinds in which stomach pain does not occur, but where there are many symptoms equally disagreeable, discomforting, disconcerting and discouraging.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain in a highly concentrated form, powerful anti-dyspeptic ingredients which digest rapidly and thoroughly food of every kind, including proteids, nitrates, carbohydrates, etc. A single grain will disintegrate and digest 3,000 grains of food.

Purchase a box from your druggist at once (price 50 cents), and get rid of the pain, discomfort and other disagreeable symptoms of dyspepsia. Also send us your name and address for free sample package. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

MYSTERY SOLVED, BUT CASE AGAINST HILL NOT PROVED

By L. R. MURDOCH.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 20.—The Fall River police are obliged to confess today that they have absolutely no evidence to support their allegation that "Dr." Frank L. Hill murdered Amelia St. Jean, the pretty little stage struck Woonsocket mill worker.

They are confident that they can prove that the girl died in "Dr." Hill's "office" in Bedford street and that "Dr." Hill or "Professor" Hill disposed of her body.

The evidence upon which they base this presumption is that certain articles of women's clothing belong to the girl. Hill's office, the nature of which they refuse to divulge, which they have examined, St. Jean with "Dr." Hill and his "medical" parlors, that Ludovic Morelli, who came from Canada and is employed by "Dr." Hill's medical parlors, says he found "Dr." Hill an unsavory boss, similar to one found Sunday on the Fish Road in Rhode Island with what purport to be blood stains on its inside surfaces; that Morelli is said to have told them that he saw "Dr." Hill carry the same box, or one like it, out of his office on Wednesday or Friday night, October 8.

It may be that Morelli has told them these things; they have said before that certain people have told them things, and, upon investigation, the statements have proved that the police were either misinformed or that the informants deliberately deceived reporters.

The fact is, that as yet there is absolutely no evidence upon which to base the legal presumption that "Dr." Hill or any other man murdered Amelia St. Jean.

Unless the Fall River police prove immediately to prove the cause of death of Amelia St. Jean, they will have formally to abandon their charge that "Dr." Frank L. Hill and Wilfred Talbeault are guilty of her murder, when the question comes to the jury before Judge Mitchell next Monday. As the remarkable "case" now appears, stands today it looks very much as if everybody else, not excepting the police, or if punished, that full justice will now be done in behalf of the pure, honored, slain girl and the State upon the guilty head and against the perjured scoundrels for the killing of this little girl and their subsequent wedding of her corpse upon the other.

Far From Solution.

While the sample death mystery has been brought to the point of being "solved," the fact stands out today that it is not, or nearly, legally solved.

Nobody can prove in court in the satisfaction of a jury, under the instructions of the Court, that the mutilated body picked up along the Bulgarmarsh road in Rhode Island is, beyond a reasonable doubt, that of Amelia St. Jean.

If that is not established beyond a reasonable doubt, the claim that "Dr." Hill or anybody else killed her is not proved at the start.

There is no doubt whatever that the victim was Amelia St. Jean, but there is otherwise means to believe that two girls disappeared from Woonsocket and Fall River almost simultaneously within seven miles of each other. The undertaking rooms in both towns are full of amazing coincidences, upon which many an injustice has been worked.

If the other mystifying facts in this remarkable case were developed, the performances for Hill and Talbeault could still afford to sit back and refuse the jury's cause as they have done consistently, until the Fall River authorities go further towards establishing the corpus delicti.

That latin term, meaning "the body of the crime," has been much abused in this case. It means every less than the body and conceives it. Yet it is not established.

Must Prove Girl Dead.

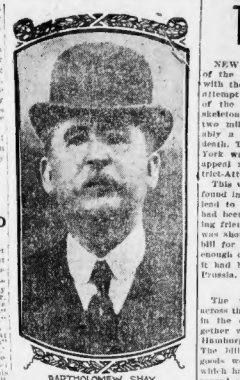
In order to convict "Dr." Hill and Will fred Talbeault, the young chauffeur, guilty, as charged, of the murder of Amelia St. Jean, the Fall River authorities must prove—always beyond a reasonable doubt—that Amelia St. Jean is dead and that she was killed through the instrumentality, and by the premeditation of Hill and Talbeault.

To prove Amelia St. Jean is dead, they have this evidence:

1. Amelia St. Jean left her aunt's home in North Elighth street, Fall River, Friday, October 8, and nobody has since appeared who will say that she was alive thereafter.

2. Clothing found in the dismal "jungle" in Bay street, on the Massachusetts-Rhode Island boundary and nearby, has been satisfactorily identified as hers.

3. A headless body, scattered along the lonesome Bulgarmarsh road in Rhode Island, has been assembled together and has answered, in general dimensions, the description of Amelia St. Jean. The only points of resemblance, however, are in the supposed measurements of Amelia St. Jean, compared with those of the corpse, and the fact that on one leg appear to be pin marks, resembling some her mother said may have appeared on Amelia's leg and on the footing the resemblance ends.



BARTHOLOMEW SHAY.

Fall River inspector who is making case against Hill.

The buttinls so far as they could be made out were "A L." The first buttinl was a script capital letter, like an enlarged small script "a." The second initial was a script capital "L" of the usual double looped type. Underneath the initials was scratched "1895."

Slain in an Auto?

When the murder occurred there was not a house for a mile on either side of the clearing.

The question had clinging to it the girl's clothing, with the exception of an outer coat, was found. The last also was missing. Such clothing as there was was of expensive material.

In lifting up the head a bullet dropped to the ground. Search of the clearing failed to reveal the revolver. The coroner believes the girl was shot in an automobile, as no noticeable shots were heard.

SONG SUCCESS FREE—"Peek-A-Boo." Words and music with the Sunday American.

Cause of Death Unknown.

The mother of Amelia St. Jean says that the finger nails look like Amelia's. Her cousin, Delsen Lefliane, says that they look utterly different. The mother said that Amelia St. Jean had no such fracture. Amelia had a "spinner's mark" on her forefinger. The corpse bore no such mark. It is possible that the mark may have vanished by lapse of time or by the drawing of blood from the body. One of the ankle bones of the corpse was fractured. In life Amelia St. Jean displayed no other instances and it will need further expert examination to settle this point.

So much for the identification.

Next, it is necessary to prove that Amelia St. Jean died positively. To prove this, assuming that the corpse is her's, the cause of death must be known.

Nobody knows the cause of death in the case of the dismembered body found in Bulgarmarsh road.

Medical Examiner Simmon has said that the body was in normal condition, that there was evidence of an illegal operation but that the operation was unsuccessful and did not cause death. The examination of the stomach showed that the girl drank tea or coffee three hours after eating, which would fix the time, so far as known at 6:30 Friday afternoon, October 8, if it is supposed that the girl went immediately to her death after eating with her aunt, Mrs. Eva Lamoreux, in North Eighth street, at 12:30 that day and since when she is not known to have been see alive. The expert report of Professor Whitney of Harvard did not indicate that anything found in the stomach caused death. Dr. Simmon's report said that the body was in normal condition, the cause of death appearing to be shown positively, not negatively, and there is no such proof. Expert examination, alone, can determine this and no expert examination has been made. The cause of death is unknown.

Alive When Dismembered?

Medical Examiner Simmon has said that the skin and blood were in such condition as to indicate that the girl was technically, at least, alive when dismemberment began. His statement needs corroboration by expert medical examination. None has yet been made.

If Simmon's hastily formed conclusion be true, then the crime may be some degree of homicide, from manslaughter up, but not necessarily murder in the first degree. To prove murder in the first degree it will be necessary to show that the girl died from unnatural causes, that her death was deliberately intended or that injuries were deliberately inflicted upon her which the person who inflicted them would have known were likely to result in death.

There is no evidence whatever in the hands of the police to support this theory.

The best information the police have is that an illegal operation was attempted, that it failed, that the girl died and that she may or may not have been killed unintentionally after the operation was performed. Not even expert medical science can prove the truth of all of this, and no expert medical examination has yet been made.

GIRL LURED FROM EUROPE TO HER DEATH

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The authorities of the German Government today joined with the officials of Suffolk County in an attempt to unravel the mysterious murder of the unidentified young woman, whose skeleton was found near the main road two miles from Islip, Long Island, probably a year after she had been shot to death. The German consul-general at New York was brought into the case after an appeal made by Coroner Savage and District-Attorney Furman of Suffolk County.

This was because such evidence had been found in connection with the murder as to lead to the belief that the murdered girl had been lured from Prussia or was visiting friends in the United States when she was shot and killed. She had a receipted bill for $16 worth of goods, marked with enough decipherable lettering to show that it had been issued by Krebel, a town of Prussia.

Firm Name a Clue.

The word "Manhattan" was stamped across the face of the bill. This was found in the clothing of the dead woman together with a guide-book issued by the Hamburg-American Steamship Company. The bill is believed to prove that the goods were bought from a Prussian firm which has a branch in New York. It appeared as if the firm's name was Koch & Verrol.

One other clue of prime importance is expected to reveal the young woman's identity; this consists of two initials, scratched apparently with the point of a pin on the inner side of the case of a watch found among other jewelry near the body.

The girl was about 20 years old, with light hair and blue eyes. She was of medium height and powers. They invigorate instead of weakening them. They enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. These pills contain no calomel, no drug; they are sensible, healing and stimulating. They school the liver to act without force.

GUILD SAYS CRISTY ATTACK WAS INSPIRED BY PERSONAL DISLIKE

Former Governor Guild today declared to my position on the tariff made by Mr. Cristy, editor of the Worcester Telegram, the Republican organ of the county, was purely personal and not in any way due to his expression of discontent with the present tariff, at the opening Republican rally in that city.

Personal dislike is the only reason that Mr. Guild can give for the attacks made on him by the Telegram for a number of years, or since Mr. Guild was first elected Governor.

"I have nothing whatever to say regarding the attacks made upon me in that paper," said the Governor today, "except that his dislike is not new and has no connection whatever with the tariff nor with this campaign.

Mr. Guild is today preparing an answer to the proposal made by Eugene N. Foss, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, that Mr. Guild, following the attacks made upon him within his own party because of his liberal tariff views, join with the Democrats and Independent Republicans and accept at their hands a nomination for the United States Senate against Henry Cabot Lodge, whose term expires in 1911. Mr. Guild was not ready to make any statement in the matter today.

"Would you consider a nomination for the Senate by Independent Republicans and the Democrats as a protest against Lodge's personal tariff, or at least to the interests of honest tariff reform?" he was asked.

"I will take up at Lynn tomorrow night all the statements in regard to me and Political News of Both Parties.

Rumors that District-Attorney Hill will not take the stump for election were set at rest today by Secretary Burnham of the Republican City Committee. "Hill will take the stump," he said, "after a busy time with the steel cases, of course, but he knows, as everyone else does, that he's got to go out and talk to the voters."

Headquarters for the Hill campaign have been engaged on the third floor of the Kimball building, directly beneath the Republican State Committee's headquarters and directly over the Pelletier headquarters.

Candidate Pelletier will tour South Boston tonight and urge his election as district-attorney. His wife will also take the stump in the district and make several speeches from an auto on the street corners.

The success of last night's Fan One rally in Hyde Park made the Plan One adherents jubilant. Congressman Keliher took a few shots at ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, John R. Murphy, George A. G. Ernst and other Plan Two folks. Chairman Donovan of the Republican City Committee, "Hill will take the stump," he said, "after a busy time with the steel cases, of course, but he knows, as everyone else does, that he's got to go out and talk to the voters."

Senator Edward W. Ilsley will be at the help of the anti-Fitzgerald campaign in Ward 6. His son, George C. Dixon, has been made a public relations officer for the Home of Representatives with Jerome Perilli, Republican leader of the district.

Senator Charles D. B. Fisk is not disheartened by his defeat for renomination for he says every night talking in the Fan One. Last night he addressed a meeting in the Bond district congressman and ex-Mayor Fitzgerald.

Lawrence H. Sullivan denies that he has patched up his differences with ex-Mayor Fitzgerald. He will not support the ex-Mayor for senator this year.

MISS BEATTIE ASKS AUTO JOB

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Miss Eleanor Mary Beattie, the young woman extradited from England on a charge of larceny preferred by the Gorham Manufacturing Company, announced today, through an interviewer in a newspaper and later to a reporter, that she wants a position as a chauffeur. She arrived yesterday.

CHAUFFEUR—Lady having own and driven several kinds of automobiles, is thoroughly conversant with engines, is good situation as chauffeur; highest references, moderate salary.

Miss Beattie, who is on bail awaiting trial, explained that her mother, Mrs. Eleanor Lorraine, took rooms at No. 142 West Seventy-sixth street. They assumed the names of Mr. and Miss E. Burton. GUARD CZAR ON WAY TO ITALY

ODESSA, Oct. 20.—Czar Nicholas arrived here today from Yalta on board the imperial yacht Standart and immediately departed with a special train for Italy, where he will visit the King. The Czar was closely guarded, an unusually heavy force surrounding him.

The agitation over the execution of Francisco Ferrer has given the governments of Russia and Italy much alarm in the fear that it will cause a popular uprising against the Czar while he is in Italy. It was a holiday in Odessa in honor of the monarch's visit. He received several deputations. The party, during, went by way of Alexandrov and Posen.

WILL NOT PAY RENT.

Superintendent Morrison of the public buildings department to-day again denied that he would pay the bill of $200 for the rent of Ford Hall, where the steel cases were tried for two days.

MORSE HOPES FOR A PARDON

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Charles W. Morse has practically given up all hope of a favorable decision in his appeal to the United States Supreme Court and is making arrangements to begin his term of fifteen years in the Federal prison at Atlanta. He hopes, however, that the President will commute his sentence after a year's time, and is putting up his financial interests so that if he is sent to Atlanta they will not suffer.

Martin W. Littleton, Morse's lawyer, will go to Washington next week to apply for a writ of certiorari before the United States Supreme Court.

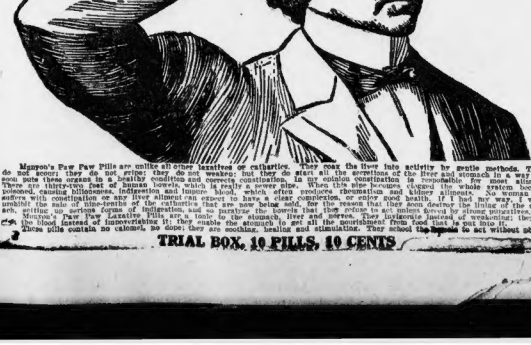
CONSTIPATION
THE CAUSE OF MOST ILLS
Munyon's Paw Paw Pills Correct Indigestion, Bowel & Liver Ailments



Munyon's Paw Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods. They do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation, in my opinion constipation is responsible for most ailments. There are three-two feet of human bowels, which is really a sewer pipe. When this pipe becomes clogged the whole system becomes poisoned, causing biliousness, indigestion and impure blood, which often produces rheumatism and kidney ailments. No woman who suffers with constipation or the liver can look clear complexion, or enjoy good health, if I had my way, I would prohibit the sale of pills-drastic purgatives that are now being sold to the people. Munyon's Paw Paw Laxative Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and bowels. They invigorate instead of weakening them. They enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. These pills contain no calomel, no drug; they are sensible, healing and stimulating. They school the liver to act without force.

DEMOCRATS TO FIX TANGLES

James H. Vahey and Eugene N. Foss, the Democratic party's standard bearers in the State campaign, speak at Lynn, Peabody, Salem and Beverly to-night. Senator Thomas P. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, will speak at the Lynn rally.

The protest of former Congressman Mc-Nary against the prominence of "the-O'Connell twins" in the campaign has made the Democratic doctors uneasy. Protests from prominent Democrats that "the rallies are not properly advertised or handled" has caused more uneasiness.

The atmosphere at headquarters is saying but harmonious. There is a feeling that certain loyal Democrats that "others are getting more out of this thing than we are"—whatever that may mean. Chairman Fred J. MacLeod of the State committee and Chairman John F. Meskill of the executive committee went to work today in from out the muddle.

The Boston Democrats have planned a torchlight parade as a side issue for to-morrow night's rally in Tremont Temple.

BABY RESTLESS AND SUFFERING

With Severe Eczema—Spread from Face All Over Scalp—Developed into a Solid Scab and Her Ears Seemed Ready to Come Off.

PERMANENTLY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My baby suffered about three weeks and she was in a very bad condition. The eczema commenced behind her ear and spread all over the scalp. It was a solid scab and sore, and her ears looked as though they would come off. She was very fretful and could not rest but very little. She would rub her little ears and scratch her head much of the time. She looked awful; indeed, I often heard of the Cuticura Remedies and bought a set. I used some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I decided to give them a trial. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment. At the time I commenced to use the Cuticura Remedies she was in a very bad fix. I began the treatment by bathing with Cuticura Soap three times a day and also using Cuticura Ointment after each bath, and before I had used the Remedies a month I found out she was improving. She continued to improve and in about three weeks she was entirely cured and has not been troubled with any skin disease since. She was a little scrofulous when a month old and she is now three years old, two months and is a fine, fat baby girl. I will gladly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one who is suffering from that terrible disease and am willing to Cuticura many thanks. I will gladly tell of her cure to any one who will ask or write me." (Signed) Mrs. Ida Lloyd, Box 40, R. F. D. 2, Windsor, Va., Oct. 8, 1908."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The character of the stock market shows a change. In fact, developments are taken as a sort of affirmation of the theory that the powers that be are determined to keep speculation quiet and orderly.

The market is for the time being a leader's proposition. There is very little aggressive or sanguine buying except in specialties. On sharp advances stocks come out, and all this tends to show a more or less bearish sentiment on the part of sellers.

New business of the Steel Trust is known to be the greatest on record. The volume of orders on hand may not be the greatest on record for any quarter, but it probably will break records for any September 30 quarter. Earnings for the September quarter understood to be about $40,000,000. Earnings for the current quarter are confidently expected to reach $45,000,000.

There is a feeling about the Street that something will be announced by the directors at their meeting next Tuesday in addition to the declaration of dividends and a report of unfilled orders. All that can be learned from the directors is that the quarterly dividends being purchased by them and their families and all of their intimate friends. They do not intend to let the Morgan & Co. do not hesitate to lend any amount of money with Steel as collateral.

The following in Hawley issues has been unwieldy and perhaps the new railroad magnate wants to shake out some of the little ones. The Hawley following is confident of very much higher prices for their stocks and has little fear of the Northern Pacific 4 this indicate a determination to turn all the cradle of all his lines eastward over that railroad.

The Street is full of talk of conferences held in the hope of adjusting differences among copper producers. The Standard Oil people have been in touch with the leading copper producers for about two years. The Lewisohns, who have been dominant in the United Metals Selling Company, have refused to deal with the Guggenheims, and have had $60,000,000 worth of copper on hand or sold yearly outside of Standard Oil control. Now that J. P. Morgan & Co. have become so heavily interested with the Guggenheims it is understood that an agreement in regard to selling is being negotiated for. Lewisohns are willing to deal with Morgan, and it was only a question of a few weeks before they would have been compelled to deal with the Guggenheims.

For several years there has been talk of a copper corporation rivalling in magnitude the great Steel Trust. Revived talk of Morgan interest in copper properties is credible and might involve the financing in great part of the properties now operating. In such an event the coppers would have a speculative campaign of great brilliancy because most of the really good copper stocks are selling very low. Amalgamated and Arizona are about the only ones above their true value.

A leading sole leather tanker outside the Central Leather Company, says: "Central Leather Co. should earn and pay 5 per cent on its $38,000,000 common stock from leather sales alone, leaving the big profits from its timber and miscellaneous operations to accrue in the treasury.

A development in American locomotive orders which has escaped public attention, but which is bound to have in the near future a most beneficial effect upon net earnings, is the increasing tendency to concentrate production at the large plants, closing down the smaller ones.

The following stocks have been admitted for trading on the Boston Curb qualified department:

Tennessee Copper Mining Co.; capitalization, $800,000; par $1 all issued.

Silver Leaf Consolidated Mining Co.; capitalization, $3,000,000, par $10; 300,000 issued; 200,000 in treasury.

For the first eighteen days of the current month East Butte produced 331,000 pounds of copper at a cost of ten cents per pound. President Gross leaves Saturday for a visit to the property.

There is every probability that at the next meeting of the directors of the Superior Can Cotton Oil Co. a dividend of better than 4 per cent. will be declared from the common stock of the company. Whether this means that the rate will be 5 per cent. or 6 per cent. cannot be accurately forecast. The point has not been settled by the directors themselves.

The report of the Erie Railroad for the fiscal year ended June 30 shows a very slight increase in gross earnings; the heavy enrollment in expenses resulted in a big gain in net and a small surplus for the first preferred stock equal to more than 6 per cent., or about 12 per cent on the current market price of the stock.

SPANIARDS AGAIN WIN OVER MOORS

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 20.—Another Spanish victory, by which the Infante Don Carlos led a brilliant cavalry charge, was reported here today. The Moors attacked the Spanish outposts at dawn and were repulsed in heavy losses. The Spanish casualties were few. The battle was fought in torrential rain.

STEEL STOCK IS ATTACKED

STATE STREET, Oct. 20.—A colorless stock market was presented in the local list this forenoon. Outside of one or two specialties and the arbitrage stocks the market was dead. However, the tone was firm. As yet there are no tangible evidences of the formation of a copper combination, although the matter may be working without the limelight of publicity.

American Zinc was the feature in the forenoon dealings and rose to 24¾ through the efforts largely of pool work. North Butte eased slightly at 84¾, and Tamarack fell 2 points to 68 on slight offerings in a narrow market.

Amalgamated was influenced by the movements of the New York market and was firm up to 83⅝. Steel common was traded in between 89½ to 90, but was dull. There is said to be an accumulating short interest in this issue.

Massachusetts Gas stock has been strong of late and rose a point to 72½ in early dealings. Earnings are showing quite an improvement and the company's good season is approaching.

Curb trading was largely one of specialties. Alaska rose 2 to 22¾. The new curb issue, Tonopah Copper, which is on the curb under the ticker name of Tonopah, Arizona touched 1 1-16. First National was firmer, while Boston Ely eased off slightly.

WOMAN TESTIFIES IN NUDD TRIAL

"Nudd told me that I was a competent engraver and I thought so myself. Now I have better." This was the gist of the testimony given to-day by Mrs. Jean L. Young of Concord, N. H., in the trial of John L. Nudd for an alleged misuse of the mails in connection with his engraving school in the Old South Building. Mrs. Young paid Nudd $25 to enter the school. She studied four months, after which she says Nudd told her she had learned the business. Nudd got her a job at Concord at $8 a week, however, which she has yet. She is a saleswoman and does engraving on the side.

The police of Boston, Providence and New York are trying to-day to solve the strange disappearance of Oscar Weniger, seventy-three years old, who left Boston for New York on the 10 o'clock train Monday morning. His daughter, Mrs. D. J. Perpente of East Eighty-fifth street, went to the station to meet her father. None of the train officials remembers seeing the aged man leave the train at any of the stations.

WANTS GIRL TO BE CALLED HARAHAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—James T. Harahan, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, has filed a petition in the Circuit Court asking that his granddaughter, Theodora Shirley, sixteen, be given the right to adopt his name. The petition sets out that the girl is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Nichol, and that the child was abandoned by her father June 17, 1901, after her mother obtained a decree of divorce from him because of extreme and repeated cruelty and also the custody of the girl.

BIBLE NO. K., FAUNCE'S IDEA

"The Bible must not be expurgated," declared Dr. William H. P. Faunce, president of Brown University and an eminent doctor of divinity, in the current issue of Van Norden's Magazine.

"If St. Paul's instruction to 'take it to the wine' to remain?" he asks. "Is his declaration that 'it is better not to marry' to stay? Moreover, who is to undertake the task of expurgation? Shall it be the Society for the Prevention of Crime or the Women's Christian Temperance Union? Will one expurgation do for all nations? In the United States we should certainly omit the prohibition of marriage with a deceased wife's sister, but the passage seems particularly dear to English moral pits.

"Immediately we are landed in a tissue of absurdity and impossibility. We do not want the Bible sterilized. We want it in full fledged virility, with all its original strength. An eviscerated Bible is a lifeless cadaver.

"Expurgation would rob the Bible of its power to deal with important evil."

WIDOW OF 68 HAS VANISHED

Mrs. Ella F. Greene, who has made her home with Mrs. H. W. Ball in Newton Highlands, has been missing since September 22, and in spite of the most diligent search no clew to her whereabouts has been obtained. Mr. Ball, who is in the hardware business at No. 33 Purchase street, has been searching the Western part of the State without result and has called upon the police to assist him.

Mrs. Greene, who is the widow of Asa Greene, who was a brilliant writer and lived for many years in Springfield, has been making her home in Newton Highlands since her husband's death. She has no close friends in Chester and Springfield. She reached Chester safely, and after visiting friends there left for her home in Springfield on September 21 to spend the night with another friend. On September 22 she left, intending to go to Newton to visit Mr. Ball, but from that time has been seen or heard of her.

Mr. Ball says a slight mental trouble might have caused her to wander away.

Mrs. Greene is sixty-eight years old, with gray hair, brown eyes, slight build and medium height, weighing about 110 pounds.

BURGLAR RAIDS LENOX HOME

LENOX, Oct. 20.—The fashionable colony here was robbed by a burglar early today. He got about $5,000 worth of valuables from one house, was scared off at another, and at a third was arrested, only to escape after battling with a private watchman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ball, whose Winter home is in New York, were the victims, when Mrs. Ball left open her dressing table a beautiful collection of toilet silver, a brooch set with diffused pearls, a diamond studded watch and several other articles of jewelry.

Whites of the estates they were at interest. A short time later Mrs. Hendee Morse, who is prominent as a rider at the time meet in Lenox, as also does the man who was alarmed by the sudden barking of her Irish terrier.

She lives in the home of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Frothingham, the latter a nephew of Postmaster-General Frothingham and Lloyd Bryce. A report that the dog a pest on the piazza. A watchman stopped the burglar, but he got away.

We bought 50,000 yards of every style, color and width to do this.

Space does not permit descriptions of this immense stock, but even to MILLINERS and DRESSMAKERS we will say that it will be a long, long time before they will ever find a chance to get Ribbon at the price we are offering this week.

HARRY LEWIS PUTS YOUNG SULLIVAN OUT IN ONE ROUND

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

TWO HARVARD REGULARS OUT OF SATURDAY GAME

"I'LL FIGHT IN MARCH AND I'LL PUT JOHNSON AWAY," SAYS JEFFRIES

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—James J. Jeffries, who is to meet Jack Johnson gave out a lengthy interview just before he sailed for America. He says he will begin training as soon as he gets back to the United States, and hopes to meet Johnson next March.

"I want to put an end, once and for all," says Jeffries, "to the various and numerous newspaper comments and arguments over my re-entry into the boxing ring and my coming battle with Jack Johnson.

"In America not a week can pass without numerous articles appearing, some stating that I am afraid of Johnson (as if an American could be afraid of a negro) and others declaring that I will beat Johnson with the greatest ease.

"I should like to say that I am altogether uninterested either in criticism, attack or praise. I have my own conscience, and that is enough for me.

"I want to meet Johnson and give him such punishment that will for a long time to come cause his brothers of color to forget all idea of wanting to become heavyweight champion of the world.

"My enemies and adversaries, no doubt, would have wished that after the Jack Johnson-Tommy Burns fight, I should have come out of my retreat and should have proclaimed to the world: "Johnson, the victor, is a negro. Next week I will meet him."

"Aside from the fact that Johnson would have refused to meet me, I could not, after having been out of the ring for five years, go back again without the least training. I had achieved what is known as a 'Corporation,' and I had to lose that. I had to recover my wind, which, naturally, I had lost. But those who have seen me in training since have observed that I am able to jump the rope for a half hour at a time without losing my wind.

"I had to retrieve the active life which is not exactly that of a gentleman farmer, the life I had been leading. I was therefore forced to ask a delay of six months before I could meet Johnson, in order to be in trim. By the end of that time I will be a new man and I hope to be able to meet Jack Johnson about next March.

"I have no reason to consider the negro as belonging to the class of boxers who have seen their best days, and I recognize in him an ability that forces me to neglect nothing in order to beat him.

"Therefore, I will not set a definite date for the match until I have reached the pink of condition.

"I don't want to beat Johnson on points. I want to knock him out."

JEFF WILL KNOCK JACK'S BLOCK OFF, SAYS BERGER

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Samuel Berger, "American representative" for James J. Jeffries, will probably arrive in this city to-day to conclude arrangements for the big go on the Johnson-Ketchel fight. "It was a mistake to send Ketchel against a man so much heavier than himself in the first place. It was just putting money in Johnson's pockets.

Jeffries has written that the baths at Carlsbad have done him a world of good and that he is coming back now feeling fifty per cent. better than when he left. It's only a question of time now before final arrangements are made for the bout. Every arrangements can be made for a go in the near future, Berger says Jeffries will probably drop any vaudeville engagement he may have been considering. He expects to remain for a few days in New York.

Jeffries will meet Johnson as soon as details for a bout can be agreed upon, and he'll knock Jack's head off sure."

This assertion was backed up by Edward Jeffries, a brother of the retired champion, who is also on his way to this city to meet York.

"What bout out, West looks queer in a good many ways," said Berger, comment-ing on the Johnson-Ketchel fight. "It was a mistake to send Ketchel against a man so much heavier than himself in the first place. It was just putting money in Johnson's pockets.

The Champion Makes Them Disappear

FIGHTING TWINS' YOUNG BROTHER IS EASY MARK

It took Harry Lewis, the crack Philadelphia welterweight, just two minutes to send young Dan Sullivan, the youngest member of that fighting family, to dreamland in their bout at the Armory A. A.

It was a poorly made match, as Sullivan had no business mixing with a boxer of the Lewis type, in spite of his holding the national middleweight amateur championship, and to make matters worse for himself he began to swap wallops as soon as the word was given with a foe who had it on him in several different ways.

While the fans were disappointed at the abrupt finish of the local boy, they could not help uttering words of sympathy for him as his seconds soothed him in his corner and brought him out of the chair in which Lewis had left him.

The lad had taken the bit in his teeth at the sound of the first bell, and while making his first professional appearance carried the fight to Lewis from the start, which proved his undoing.

Quick End for Sully.

Lewis saw his danger of letting the young giant get over a chance blow which might disable him and made up his mind to cop as easy as possible, and it was a shame the way he cut Sully up.

Bleeding from the nose and mouth from the wicked welts Lewis put over as Sullivan rushed in, the defeated boxer never hesitated in going to his destruction and the ending was soon over.

It was a game exhibition by a willing youngster who was entirely outclassed in the company he was traveling with and about the softest money Lewis ever picked up.

When the bell rang Sullivan, unlike his famous twin brothers, refused to use any stalling tactics, but went at Lewis as if he meant to bore him over at short notice and sifted through a heavy right hand punch to the body. Before Lewis could get over the surprise Sullivan was in again with the same kind of a punch, from Lewis woke up to the fact that it was time to get busy and opened up his battery. He forced his right to the jaw and shot a left to the head, which put Sullivan off his balance and dropped him up for an instant. In again the youngster went, while Lewis measured a left hook to the wind that lifted Sully off his feet.

Lewis Gets Busy.

A straight left between the eyes failed to hold Sullivan in check as he returned in a rush close enough for Lewis to snap another nasty left hook to the body. Sullivan's speed dropped some and Lewis saw his chance. He ripped another left to the body and before Sullivan could get straightened out he got a left flush on the jaw, out until he was full of fight and started to exchange swings, when ended the fray, as Lewis snapped a right and left to the jaw and Sullivan was sprawled on the mat unable to rise.

The decision in the semi-final bout between Young Perron, the Pawtucket Frenchman, and Billy Kirkland of Roxbury did not meet with popular approval when the victory was bestowed the latter after the bout went the full distance.

The only thing that counted against Kirkland was a knockdown in the third round and Perron finished up a little stronger. A draw in the minds of the majority would have been better received. Perron, with his record of many knock outs and quick wins, found a different kind of a fighter in Kirkland than he had been up against and was not quite so active, having to force Kirkland to do the hard work, and he never flinched, even when taking the count in the third period. Perron appeared satisfied to save himself any trouble by clinching often rather than meet Kirkland in his endless and sure his elbow and glove in a foul way, getting roundly hissed for stretching the rules.

Novices Beat the Air.

The nine three-round trouts, with all kinds of ambitions intent performing in the ring, was the big sport on the card and kept the house in roars of laughter.

The real scrap was the set-to between Joe Brown, the Klondyke Hurricane, and Kid Dell, the Barbadoes wonder, two colored gentmen, who reeled around on the mat hugging each other till they were changed to a white shade from pounding received.

No rules governed the contest and the pair were left to themselves to settle the argument in any way they could, which they did in fine old Howard street style.

There was another wild exhibition between Jiggy Sullivan, white, and Jack Scott, black as coal. There was a bunch of flying arms and legs when quite the mat, in a heap with a struggle hold on each other. How or their feet there was another football rush, and they were not disentangled until Jigger got in the way of one of Scott's lungs and went down for keeps.

In the other bouts Tom Riley of Somerville beat Mike Doherty, South Boston, three rounds; Peter Lee beat Jack Allen three rounds; P. Rocco, Haverhill, beat John McKinnon, one round; Dave Brosnett J. Haterwater, three rounds; Harry Kelly, Cambridge, beat J. Doie, one round; Joe Kalfsey, Lowell, won three from Burke Palladelphia, three rounds; Young Dodge beat Ed Smith, East Boston, three rounds.

NAUGHTON SAYS JOHNSON FAKED IN FINAL ROUND

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—They are still talking of the Johnson tousle in San Saturday's fight and the query: Did he fall for what was punched? Is in a fair way of becoming as much of a prize fight conundrum as the identity of the party who discovered the Pole.

Critics are taking sides on the issue and hard feeling is being engendered. Those who think the knockdown bogus are in the majority but some of the others—and what these say are declining against what they consider an attempt to rob Ketchel of a credit where his credits were lamentably few—make up in vehemence what they lack in numbers.

Personally I see no reason for doubting the impression likely forged in our mind at the time. I feel that the Johnson fall was a stage play mural at the darkey's distrust with which Othello ends his existence after throttling Desdemona. Indeed, I'll further and say I am thankful it was no worse and this involves an explanation.

When I saw Johnson drop clumsily with a grin on his face, the thought seized me that he was going to stage and be counted out. There would have been the

JOHNSON NOW FEARS JEFFRIES WILL QUIT COLD

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—Jack Johnson is bolder than ever in his warlike talk regarding Jeffries and declares he fears the bulldreamker will run out of the proposed match when he arrives in New York rather than risk defeat. Here is Johnson's latest:

I can whip Jeffries and he knows it. I am ready to sign articles now and will agree to forty-five rounds or to a finish. Ketchel, Kaufman and Burns were all very easy, but Jeffries will be quite for me. I want him to agree to a long fight because I will have a chance to fire him out and beat him as my legs are fresher. I will not trouble about making the match as far as I am concerned. I will fight at Colma under Coffroth's management and will take chances on a gate, but will bet $10,000 on the side and will accept the earliest date Jeffries wants to name. I will also give him $1,000 as a present when he gets his articles that are ironclad. But I will not be satisfied that he intends to meet me until he gets into the ring.

Stanley Ketchel, with three front teeth missing, has recovered his equilibrium sufficiently to talk coherently of his recent affair with Johnson. He says that he made a fatal error in "banging himself" on the negro's punches in the final twelfth round after he had sent the big champion to the mat.

"I thought I had him going," explained Ketchel, "and I probably lost my head. I was fairly beaten and I want to say that Johnson is a great mortbet, but for the same I think I can beat him in another fight.

Ketchel's expressed willingness to settle his differences with Langford may result in a match being arranged by Promoter Coffroth for Thanksgiving day. Langford is ready to sign articles and the fight, if clinched, will be a big card as both Langford, who is more determined than ever before to go after big game, wants to fight Johnson some time in December or January, but there are no indications just now that he will be accommodated.

LANGFORD OFF TO TRAIN.

Sam Langford who fights Klondyke at the Triple A on November 2, started for Northboro this morning to get into condition for the fight. Sam is aware that Klondyke is a tough customer, as will be seen by his record.

STRAIGHT DOPE

FOR SPORT FANS

OLD KID JEFFRIES HAS COME through with the goods and will sign up for the match as soon as he arrives from abroad. All he wants is a chance to "bring the title back to the white race" and give the black champion such a trimming that the story of the walloping of Johnson will go thundering down through eons of time with such a robust sound as to give any black man a case of shivers if he thinks of aspiring to the heavyweight title. That's all Jeff wants to do. He admits it himself. When will the walloping take place? Oh, some time along about next March, when the theatrical season is nearly over.

DAN SULLIVAN, THE YOUNGER brother of the fighting twins, is an ambitious youngster. Pardon me, I meant to say he was. I don't know what aspirations he cherishes after that two minutes of fighting and several more of chitchat Harry Lewis handed out to him last night at the Armory. Mike Twin was explaining to me the other day why the match between Lewis and Dan was made.

"Danny is a fresh kid," said Mike, "and thinks he is good enough for any of them. He thinks he's too good for the preliminaries, and nothing would do him but a main bout with a good man. Whatever happens to him will do him good. He's after experience."

Something did happen to him. Lewis did him good and Danny got experience.

FAR BE IT FROM ME TO DISAGREE with as good a referee as Dick Fleming, or as good judges of boxers as Miah Murray, Joe Woodman, Billy Pierce and a few others. They thought the decision given Perron over Kirkland was well earned and just. I think it was rotten. The very worst I could see for Kirkland was a draw and a whole lot better award would have been to give the bout to him. From where I sat it looked as if he carried the fight to Perron all the way and jabbed his left to the Pawtucket boy's mush and midriff just about when he wanted to until the final round. Perron has a wallop, but Kirkland outboxed him all the way. It is just the wallop that counts why no give each boxer a club and let them whang away at each other? Now that I've told you about it, I'll yield to the superior wisdom of Messrs. Fleming, Murray, Woodman, Pierce et al and not kick any on the decision.

PETER J. CONNORS, NEW BEDFORD, Mass. You have a kind face, Peter, but I'm afraid you have a peevish disposition and are trying to make someone the goat. I know a whole lot of boxers about Boston who are good fighters from the neck down, and it may be that one of these was trying to put something over on your friend Cigarette McCurdy, but your letter is so worm I'm afraid to print it, for fear it would start a fire that we couldn't put out. Come again, Peter, only cut out the fireworks next time.

BURIED IN THE OODLES OF AFTERmath to the Johnson-Ketchel fight comes a story that the California promoters who staged the bout, bilked the public in the matter of weights in order to swell the gate receipts. The story goes like this: Because of a criticism of the match when it was first made to the effect that it was manifestly unfair to pit the gigantic negro against so small an opponent, it is said that Ketchel gave out his weight as 170 when as a matter of fact he did not scale at more than 158; also that Johnson weighed more than 205 pounds, which gave him an immense advantage. By announcing that Johnson weighed 195 and Ketchel about twenty pounds less the persons who pulled off the mill excited more interest than would have been shown if the real weights of the men had been disclosed. Well, who cares now. The fight is over, Johnson won and now it is up to Jeff.

Oh, dear Straight Dope:

Why, oh, why does Mutz persist in following "handsome" and dancing the gaits on the three methodical ones? Why don't he get "Straight Dope" and get on the band wagon with the rest of the rag-time. I would suggest that he rub a "mush" and change his name.

Success to you and your column. Sincerely,

COMMISSION FINDS WAY OUT OF DIFFICULTY

By J. C KERRISON.

One of the greatest problems that the Massachusetts Highway Commission has to contend with in arranging for the registration of motor vehicles under the law which becomes effective on the first of the year has been the adoption of a system to determine horsepower. This, however, has been overcome by the adoption of the formula of the A. L. A. M.

This is $\frac{D^2N}{2.5} = H.P.$ in which D represents the bore of the cylinders, N their number and 2.5 is a constant determined after much experiment by automobile engineers. The commission will require owners to state on their application blanks the horsepower of their car, also the number of the cylinders and their number. By means of a table that has been prepared showing the horsepowers for all sizes of bores and groups of cylinders from one to six, the Commission will be able to tell whether the horsepower as stated is correct and whether the fee is right.

Systematizing of the automobile industry is indicated by the policy adopted for the 1910 season by the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing Company of Syracuse. This company is making and marketing its cars on a selectable fixed at the beginning of the season.

The arrangement permits the purchaser to contract for a delivery date as well as for a motor car at the time of his selection of the car. Inspection of the schedule shows him on what date the car will be turned out at the factory and shipped to him. The dealer sells a certain automobile for delivery at a specified time, just as if he had the machine complete and in his salesroom.

In this way a conflict of claims for delivery such as often characterized the earlier years of automobile making is avoided.

A 1910 Cadillac Thirty, driven from Buffalo to Manchester, N. H., by Frank V. Cooke of Manchester, encountered conditions which make the trip a noteworthy one.

The 241 miles between Syracuse, N.Y., and Springfield, Vt., were covered in a severe rain, which continued practically throughout the entire distance. In crossing Pera mountain, the road from Hinsdale was taken instead of the Jacob's Ladder route, and the car encountered the worst specimen of blue clay and springy conditions that ever came under Mr. Cooke's observation. The road was in such condition that the day before the Cadillac passed that way 8 seventy-five horsepower cars were mired and had to be pulled out by horses.

STRIKE NOW THREATENS IN TIGER RANKS

DETROIT, Oct. 20.—What promises to be a merry row has started in the Tiger jungle.

President Navin and Manager Hughey Jennings are said to be at loggerheads as a result of the recent world's series.

Navin is said to be so keenly disappointed over the result of the series and Jennings's handling of the Tigers therein that he is likely to make a point of this matter in drawing up Jennings's new contract. On the other hand, Jennings has said he must have larger salary.

Another row involves most of the other players. They have figured out that the bulk less made $300,000 since Jennings came here, and nearly half of that amount during the season just ended. They consider themselves the main factors in the result and want part of the velvet. Consequently there is likely to be a general demand for big boosts in salary when contract time comes around. With Cobb and Mullin heading the list.

If the dreamers are not granted the movement may reach the proportions of a general strike

Gardner is at Middleton, Mass., and reports say that he is going along fast as ever in his preparatory work.

BOSTON LATIN TIES WITH NEWTON HIGH

NEWTONVILLE, Oct. 20.—Boston Latin and the local high school football eleven ended up their game here at Claflin Field with the score of 5 to 5, each side scoring one touchdown and failing to kick the goal. The game was hotly played, but nevertheless interesting, as it was full of exciting plays that brought the spectators to their feet time and again. The home team showed a decided improvement over its work of last week, and played a slashing game. Fumbles were frequent on both teams, and were the cause of both touchdowns.

EVERETT BEATS QUINCY.

EVERETT, Oct. 20.—Another victory was won by Everett High when Quincy was taken into camp to the tune of 29 to 0. Captain Charles Brickley went in in the second half and made the pigskin on both sides was very rugged, the home team outclassed the visitors, who were lighter.

GOLF GOSSIP
NEWS OF THE LINKS

J. E. Keelan of Woodland, who was playing in the Oakley open tournament, had rather a peculiar sequence of winning. In his second match with H. C. Davidson he was one down at the fifth hole, and things were beginning to look bad. "Jim" then turned the tables and not being satisfied with a lead of two or three holes won every hole after the fifth and the match 7 up and 5 to play.

C. C. Briggs put Roy L. Hilton of Andover out of the running in the Oakley tournament. Hilton is one of the good ones among the schoolboy players and was in the tournament last Spring at Commonwealth. He played some good golf in this meeting and is a promising young player.

Forester Ainsworth, the young Woodland player, has entered Stone school this year from Roxbury High. He went out for the football team and will make good at left end. Ainsworth has played some good golf this year, both in the schoolboy meeting and in other open tournaments. He won the second net prize at the Allston Golf Club this Summer.

The "Ringer" contests at the Woodland and the Chestnut Hill golf clubs have proved a great success this year and a source of pleasure to the various players. Nearly all the scores are in at these two clubs and some extremely low figures for the course have been recorded.

FOOTBALL GRIDIRON NOTES

Clay, one of the halfbacks on the Navy eleven, formerly played in the Williams backfield.

Strathmore, famous for its drug tickers in years past, is without the services of a reliable booter this year.

Cozens is one of the most versatile men in the Pennsylvania squad. Already this season he has played in the backfield, centre and right end.

* * *

Followers of the work of the Badgers say that Wisconsin will be represented by the greatest team in its history. So far the team has shown considerable strength.

* * *

Coach Alonzo Stagg of the Chicago team spent much of his time during the past Summer inventing new plays. The result is an entirely new repertoire for the Maroon eleven.

Dawson, the former Holyoke lad, is such a valuable man for Princeton that although he was displaced from the quarterback position he is being used in the backfield.

* * *

The team of Kansas has about the whole Middle West title all sewed up. Coach Bills has developed in spite of the rival colleges called "Best Kansas" clubs.

* * *

In addition to coaching the Villa Nova team, Fred Crolius, the former Dartmouth star, is finding time to take numerous side trips and officiate at football games.

* * *

There is no game that Pennsylvania fears more than that with the Indians. This contest is now only two weeks off and the Red and Blue team is far from being the clean it should be.

* * *

The record some hung up by the West Virginia Wesleyan College of 119 to 0 against Bethany looks like the year's record. Nothing approaching these figures has yet been made by college teams.

* * *

Some drastic hazing was handed out to the Wisconsin quarterback recently and the change is now being made by the students in the way of a hazing waged against intercollegiate sports at Wisconsin.

* * *

Adolph Schultz, of Fort Wayne, Ind., the former All-Western and All-American guard, is recovering from an explosion in a drug store, from which was dropped a lighted match.

* * *

The long-hoped for gathering of football players is to be tried by the Marquette football authorities. The names of the players and their positions to be printed in the programs. This step is expected to make the game more popular.

* * *

Because the faculty of the law school of the University of Wisconsin is inclined to make him live up to the eligibility rules, Pat Donnelly, the big fullback and star of the University of Nebraska, will not be allowed to play against the Badgers, although Johnson has offered the services free of charge. Coach Barry is greatly handicapped with a disabled elbow.

The Tremont Street Parade — Autumn Hats Are Here

Women's Clubs Are Improving Nation's Health

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1909, by American-Examiner

THE women of America are awake to all the important subjects of the day.

They are emancipated from most of the restrictions which narrowed the horizon of their grandmothers, but they have just as great, if not a greater, respect for the old-fashioned virtues and accomplishments (those qualities which went to the making of a good home for husband and children) as had those estimable foremothers of ours.

This is an era of clubs.

Out of mere literary and social clubs other organizations have grown, and from these associations, where bright mind meets bright mind, enlarged views and better ideals have sprung.

Every phase of life which can help to lift the race to ideal conditions will be studied by one of the clubs recently organized. Pure food will be made a special subject of study and analysis.

This is wise, because in man's present development food is an important factor in his physical, mental and moral condition.

The time will come when men will think of food only as he thinks of the act of breathing, and as food for his system, not as the principal source of his daily enjoyment, as now. Great new capacities for enjoyment and pleasure will develop in the race—capacities which will give fearful keener delight than we now experience in the consuming of the most appetizing foods, and which will leave no after penalties of indigestion or suffer.

When the time comes, however, the present race will not be populating the earth; for rather it will populate it, but reincarnated in new forms). Until the new race, with its knowledge of larger powers of enjoyment, arrives, we must consider the food question as a most important one.

Under-fed and ill-fed children are invariably inferior, in some respects, to well-fed children. Well fed does not mean over fed; it means wisely fed.

Two-thirds of the maladies and miseries of the poor arise from badly prepared food, lacking in nutriment and nutrition.

Two-thirds of the maladies of the rich are caused from too rich and highly spiced foods, taken too frequently and in too great quantities.

New England, three or four decades ago, was the centre of the white plague; almost every family possessed its member dying of slow consumption; and it was supposed to be a scourge sent upon whole Christian families, proving the love of God for that particular family.

That tuberculosis was caused by the unhygienic manner of life and bad nutrition in the food common in New England never entered the minds of our grandmothers. Yet such was the fact. The rigorous climate, with its extremes of hot and cold, called for wise diet, low diet, and good ventilation.

These are topics which the women of to-day are studying and this study will bring its large influence to the efforts now being made to stamp out tuberculosis.

The Stenographer Discourses About Ideal Husbands---By Dorothy Dix

"I SEE," said the Bookkeeper, "that there is going to be a husband show in Chicago, and twelve model Benedicks have been entered in the race."

"I didn't know that there were twelve model husbands in the whole world," replied the Stenographer acidly, "I have never seen a single one."

"You have never lived in Chicago," replied the Bookkeeper, soothingly, "that's why you talk that way. If you were there, you would know that there are twelve model husbands in the block where I used to live."

"Women must be easy to please in Chicago," retorted the Stenographer, "but what are the points by which the ideal husband is to be judged?"

"Looks and general utility, I infer from what the paper says," replied the Bookkeeper, "the judges are going to take into consideration the quantity of hair a man has and the way he combs it, how long it takes him to hook up his wife's dress, his ability to describe a gown, his gallantry, docility, patience, and how he stands on the money question. Also his ability to tell the price of a hat, but the supreme test will come when he is asked to hang a picture."

"A man who could make good on all of these counts wouldn't be a man at all," exclaimed the Stenographer, "he would be a thirty-third-degree angel."

"Oh, we men are reaching out toward the higher life," said the Bookkeeper, "and we are willing to do our part toward making matrimony a grand, sweet song.

"I hail this matrimonial show as the dawn of a new era in domestic felicity, for it shows what man can do toward making home happy when he really gives his mind to it. Only think what it will mean to a woman when she has a husband who can look her up in the back nearly and expeditiously, and without profanity, instead of tearing and pulling her laces and using cuss words because he can't find where the buttons and hooks go!"

"It certainly will be a change," admitted the Stenographer.

"And," went on the Bookkeeper, "picture the joy of a woman who is married to a man who brings home his salary envelope untouched, and who really prefers to spend his money for brica-brac than for cigars and drinks, and coarse, vulgar things of a similar nature. Certainly any man with a single claim to being a model husband would be willing to wear his last year's suit so that his wife might have 'steen new frocks."

Solving the Hat Mystery.

"Most of the married women that I know have to ebullorum their husbands before they can get the price of one new dress out of them," commented the Stenographer.

"And think how the Dove of Peace will take up its abiding place in the household where the husband is a millinery expert and can tell the difference at sight between an imported confection and a last year's bird nest," continued the Bookkeeper.

"In the families with which I have the honor to be intimate a lot of friction seems to be engendered by the rough, rude remarks of the male head of the house concerning the ink of the female head thereof, and the inability of the said male to perceive why a little scrap of felt, combined with a few chicken feathers, and a yard and a half of ribbon, should be a bargain at forty dollars, just because it has got a French name inside of it."

"It would be a comfort," admitted the Stenographer, "to meet up with a man of such a thing as handing you any back talk," urged the Bookkeeper.

"He would love me to death," replied the Stenographer.

"If none of the Chicago theories as to what constitutes a model husband pleases you, may I inquire what in your opinion constitutes an ideal running mate?" politely inquired the Bookkeeper.

"Oh," replied the Stenographer, "my ideal of a perfect husband is very simple.

"It's just a man who bulldozes all the balance of the world, but lets me wrap him around my finger, who never loved before, and never looks at any woman but me, who thinks that everything that I do is exactly right, and who makes about a million dollars a minute and gives it to me to spend, and never asks what I did with the change."

"No wonder you haven't found him," said the Bookkeeper.

The Dove of Peace would abide in the house where the husband is an expert in women's clothes

The Stenographer's ideal husband is the man who bulldozes the rest of the world and then allows his wife to boss him

"It's a Pretty Good World, After All"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AFTER all, my girls, it's a pretty good old world in which we live.

Some of us might have more money; some more beauty; some more health; but, on the whole, haven't we all had a great deal of sunshine filtering through the shadows?

I had a sad little letter from a girl in the other day. She is hopelessly ill, is in a hospital and has few friends. "What is there bright in life for me?" she asks practically.

I can do nothing for her except send her a heartful of sympathy and pity.

To me the world is a very beautiful and joyous place. The sky, the sun, the earth—all sing aloud in my heart. I sometimes feel I could join them with "Tiny Tim" in exclaiming "God bless everybody." The great thing to avoid is fretting over trifles.

Supposing that you are invited to a party and you have not a pretty dress to wear. It's too bad, but it isn't worth crying over.

Determine to Be Happy

Make up your mind that you are going to have a good time and forget all about your shabby dress. If your eyes are bright with enjoyment, and your cheeks pink with excitement, the men will flock about you and you'll have a good time never fear.

What I say to myself is this: "This life is a short one, and I am going to get all the pleasure possible out of it. I have not time to sit down and whine for the impossible."

Don't you think that a sensible resolve? Why not adopt it also?

There are a good many things in this world that we can't have.

If you are constantly envying your neighbor you can never find life very bright.

Don't Complain; Give Thanks

Don't think about the things you can complain about, but those that you must give thanks for.

I think I would rather not live than be a pessimist.

Think how horrible it must be never to see anything in a light that is good or hopeful or pleasant.

If you are a gloomy pessimist the least you can do is keep your views to yourself; do not poison the happiness of others by your sad and sour opinions.

We may all have something of which to complain, but none of us have everything; that is one thing sure and certain.

Counting your blessings is far more profitable than counting your nuisances; don't forget that.

Through the Wall

SYNOPSIS.

Warned by a dream told him by Alice Groener, the seller of candles and relics in the Notre Dame Cathedral, Paul Coquenil, the most famous detective of Paris, refuses an offer to become chief of police of Rio Janeiro at a large salary. He thinks that a crime is about to be committed and that the advantageous offer has been made him to get him out of the way so that he will not work on the case. As he is telling this to a good friend of his, M. Pougeot, commissary of the Paris police, the latter receives word that Eugene Martinez, a professional billiard player, has been killed under mysterious circumstances at the Ansonia Hotel, one of the best-known restaurants of Paris. The two hurry to the Ansonia, of which M. Gritz is the owner. They find Martinez, who was dining in a private room with a woman, was shot through the right eye and the bullet entered the brain. The woman has disappeared. The revolver was held so close to the dead man that the powder stained his face. The police are at a loss to determine whether it is murder or suicide. No weapon is found in the room.

Alice, the girl whose dream warned Coquenil, lives at the Convent of the Sacristan of Notre Dame. She is in love with Lloyd Kittredge, a young Englishman with a past. He promised to die, but is received. On the night of the murder, Alice is celebrating the Declaration of Independence with other Americans in Paris, at a banquet at the Ansonia. He promised Alice he would see her that evening and left the banquet hall early.

During the police investigation at the hotel suspicion points to Gritz's wife being the murderer. No one can tell anything about him, and while they are still discussing him, he returns to the hotel to secure the wraps of the woman who was with Martinez in the private dining room.

The wraps are given to him and he is trailed to Alice's home, where he is arrested on the charge of murder. After being arrested, he tells Alice that he sought to get a woman, whom he thought he loved, out of trouble and, while innocent, had been enmeshed in the law's snare. She tells him that she loves him and trusts him, as he is led away to prison.

M. Gibelin, the detective in charge of the investigation, tells Coquenil that he is not wanted in the case and that orders to that effect have come from headquarters. Coquenil, however, drops the cab that took Kittredge to Alice's home, when he had the mysterious woman's wraps, and he had secured the woman's name from a little strip of leather Kittredge tore off her handbag.

Coquenil makes terms with the chief of police, telling that he will give up his information if he is given charge of the case. The terms are accepted.

The disappearance of the weapon cannot be explained until a seamstress, living near the Ansonia, tells Coquenil that she saw some shining object thrown from the window of the private room next to the one in which Martinez met his death. She points to where it fell and is telling more of the circumstances regarding it when to-day instalment opens.

CHAPTER VI. (Continued.)

The Weapon.

"DID you happen to see the person who threw this thing?" continued M. Paul gently.

"No, but I saw his arm."

Coquenil gave a start of satisfaction. "His arm? Then a man threw it?"

"Oh, yes; I saw his black coat sleeve and his white cuff quite plainly."

"But not his face?"

"No, only the arm."

"Do you remember the window from which he threw this object?" The detective looked at her anxiously.

"Yes, indeed, it is easy to remember. It's the end window on the first floor of the hotel. There!"

Coquenil felt a thrill of excitement for, unless he had misunderstood the commissary's diagram, the was pointing not to private room Number Six, but to private room Number Seven!

"Ladies!" he called and, taking his friend aside, he asked: "Does that end window on the first floor belong to Number Six or Number Seven?"

"Number Seven."

"And the window next to it?"

"Number Six."

"Are you sure?"

"Absolutely sure."

"Thanks. Just for a moment," and he rejoined the women.

"You are giving us great assistance," he said to her politely. "I shall speak of you to the—"

"Oh, sir," she murmured in confusion.

It Was the End Window."

"But one point is not quite clear. Just look across again. You see two windows open, the end window and the one next to it. Isn't it possible that this bright thing flying

Did You Try the North Pole Time Puzzle? Well, Watch and See How Near You Came

Well, well, what varying answers are coming in in the North Pole contest.

You all know the question:

When it is 12 o'clock noon, Boston, what time is it at the North Pole?

There is a $5 prize for the best answer and five $1 prizes for five other answers. The contest will close Saturday, and the SUNDAY AMERICAN will print the solutio nand announce the winners.

The solution has been prepared by an eminent scientist.

Watch for the answer. Meanwhile here's a few more stabs at the solution BY AMERICAN readers:

ALWAYS NOON.

North Pole Editor:

When it is 12 o'clock noon in Boston, it is 12 o'clock at the Pole, because it is 12 o'clock all the time at the Pole.

M. M. FARRER.

South Easton.

CAN YOU FIGURE TIME?

North Pole Editor:

When I was at the North Pole it seems to me that for six months it was day time, and the other six nightime. Where does your noon or 12 o'clock or any time come in at the Pole.

RUSSELL TRAFTON.

No. 195 Gallup street, Providence.

HOTEL AT THE POLE?

North Pole Editor:

At the North Pole time is nothing, and if one were residing at the North Pole it would be unnecessary to wind one's watch. You are always at 12 o'clock and don't walk out of the hotel without walking south. All times of day meet at the pole in the morning place of all the meridians. A man sitting with the invisible mathematical point right under him would be in all twenty-four hours at once, or a twenty-four-hour watch placed on the pole could be made to point to the correct time in every part of the world.

PATRICK B. MURPHY.

"MIDNIGHT."

North Pole Editor:

When it is 12 o'clock noon in Boston it is 12 o'clock at night at the North Pole.

When it is noon at Boston it is 3 o'clock in the morning at the North Pole.

NOON A. M. AT POLE

North Pole Editor:

When it is 12 o'clock noon in Boston it would be 3:30 a. m. at the North Pole.

BUT WHAT TIME IS IT?

MIDNIGHT, SIR SAYS.

North Pole Editor:

As there are two seasons at North Pole, the dark season and light season, it cannot not be the same time in Boston as at the Pole. When it is 12 at the Pole, midnight, it is 12 in Boston at noon.

MARGUERITE CARTER.

No. 13 Kingman avenue, Revere.

"OH, SELL POLE TO ICE COMPANY"

North Pole Editor:

I think it is about time for to sell the North Pole to the Boston Ice Company and return the money to Cook and put Peary on the ice wagon.

EDWARD WILTSHIRE

No. 100 Concord avenue, Cambridge.

NO TIME AT ALL.

North Pole Editor:

In answer to the North Pole question I would say: A day at the North Pole is six months of night and six months of daylight; therefore the day is really a year, and in our sense of twenty-four hours a day, there is no time there, as there is no longitude.

The time on the North Pole I understand is, is no difference. On September 21, when it is noon at Boston it is 6 p. m. at North Pole. December 22 it is midnight on the Pole when it is noon at Boston. On March 21 its 6 a. m. or morning, on Polo when noon at Boston, and June 21 noon on Pole when noon at Boston. As the sun does not rise for the other six there is but one day and one night during the year.

WATCH ROTATES, TOO.

North Pole Editor:

If you place your watch on the exact spot where the meridians meet, if it is 12 o'clock in Boston, you will always have 12 o'clock at the North Pole, for the reason that the earth rotates and the watch will rotate with it.

JUST TWO MICE IN "THE BLUE MOUSE" STAR AND HER PET

MABEL BARRISON

There are two mice in "The Blue Mouse." One is Miss Mabel Barrison in the title role herself. The other is Miss Barrison's dog, "Mouse." Just plain "Mouse," not "mice" or any other adjective title.

Audiences at the Globe Theatre the past two nights have studied at the little white toy spaniel which appears in the second act as the particular pride and pet of "The Blue Mouse." "Mouse," the dog, has no speaking part, but he wags his diminutive tail incessantly and seems to enjoy matters generally.

"Mouse" is only a pup. He was presented to Miss Barrison by Business Manager Reynolds of the company as a token of esteem.

"Oh, isn't he a dear little fellow," said the comedienne to the business manager. "I'll be awfully kind to him and every time I look at him I'll think of you."

"Which," said Reynolds, in speaking of it later, "is a fine canine compliment, isn't it."

A NOVELTY

"POOR Clyde Fitch," said a young play writer lately, "was always ready to give advice and help to juniors.

"I once described to Mr Fitch a climax that seemed to me unique in the line. But Mr. Fitch said that novelty and strangeness had little value in climaxes—rent human interest was the thing.

"He listened to it unenthusiastically, a quite unique, climax that would yet be bound to fail.

"In this climax the hero, a chap with wooden legs, stumps breathlessly across the stage as fast as his two wooden legs will carry him. A woman brandishing a lurid scythe cleaver is in pursuit. The woman overtakes the man. She upsets him. Kneeling, she brandishes the cleaver about his artificial limbs.

"Herbert Mannering,' she cries, 'put me the six weeks' board you owe, or I will cut both your wooden legs off!'"

Health and Beauty Secrets

A. L.: Treat canker in the mouth with pure alum, but rinse well from the teeth as it affects the enamel.

H. S.: For a quick drying home shampoo simply dissolve a teaspoonful of cantharox in a teacupful hot water. Pour on the hair and rub well. Cantharox makes a rich and plentiful lather that thoroughly cleans the scalp, removes dandruff, relieves itching and irritation and leaves the hair soft, bright and fluffy. Every article mentioned in my recipes is carried in stock by druggists, and your druggist will get cantharox for you if he cares to be accommodating.

Hattie C.: It may be a cruel way to put it, but it is only truth to say that competition is keen among women and she who is most attractive in appearance most often wins the best husband and home. It is your duty to look your prettiest. The most important step in securing a good complexion is to purify your blood. Get from your druggist 1 ounce of kardene and one-half pint of alcohol. Put these in a quart measure and add half a teacup of sugar and enough hot water to fill the quart measure. This makes a splendid blood tonic and liver invigorator and is a good remedy for pimples, blotches, sallow complexion, scrofula and all eruptions of the skin. Take 1 tablespoonful three times before meals and before retiring, and it will put your blood in good condition for winter.

R. F. D.: To get rid of that rubber greasy look that troubles you, use this espring lotion, and it will give the skin a clear, fresh and youthful appearance. Get from your druggist 4 ounces of spurmax, dissolve it in a half-pint of warm water and add 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. If applied in the morning your complexion will not need retouching the whole day long. It is a true beautifier and is widely used in preference to powder.

Laura S.: Always rub gently in massaging, for if you rub hard you do more harm than good. To make a good, crease-less face cream jelly that is excellent for massaging and any purpose for which ordinary face cream is used, get from your druggist 3 ounces of simonol. Dissolve it in a half-pint of cold water and add 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir briskly and let stand. If too thick, thin by adding more water until you have the desired consistency. As this cream jelly contains no oils or fats, it can be used without fear of causing hair to grow. It is unexcelled as a cleanser, for when applied it cause the dirt and grime to roll off and the pores are really cleared. Almonlin tends to make large pores small and prevents blackheads. It also removes freckles and tan and keeps the skin moist, smooth and pliable.

Wm. G.: To rid yourself of superfluous fat get from your druggist 4 ounces of parmelo, take it home and dissolve it in one pint of hot water. Take 1 tablespoonful three times a day before meals.

Estelle: To make your dull and fadened eyes bright, clear and sparkling use a few drops of eye tone made by dissolving 1 ounce of crystos in a pint of water. This eye tonic will not smart or burn, but will rest, soothe and strengthen your eyes.

Mabel R.: Dandruff and split hairs are signs that the scalp needs nourishment. Rub into the hair twice a month with canthrox. Put off all ends of split hair. To nourish the hair roots and keep scalp in healthy condition use once or twice a week a quinine hair tonic made by dissolving 1 ounce of quininoin in a half-pint of alcohol and adding half pint of cold water. Rub into roots of hair, not hair, so hair will be absorbed. This treatment will promote the growth of hair and tend to make it luxuriant and glossy.

Sadie D.: An excellent remedy for any rash or simple skin eruption and a cure for eczema and salt rheum can be made at home by mixing 4 ounces of luxor with 4 tablespoonfuls of alcohol and a half-pint of water. Pour a little of the lotion on the affected surface and allow to dry, repeating treatment two or three times a day until the skin is restored to healthy condition.

Helen X.: A small bag of salt, well heated and covered with flannel, gives relief when applied to an aching ear.

There's No Other Milk Like Van Camp's

When we win you away from the milkman, we want you to have the finest milk in the world. Don't think that all evaporated milks are alike. A milk may be half as rich as Van Camp's and still be labeled "evaporated."

When we tell you Van Camp's Milk is rich and economical, don't think that refers to all milks.

And don't think an equal size of can holds equal butter fat.

The richness of milk depends, first, on the cows. All of our cows are Holsteins.

Next it depends on the amount of water evaporated. We take out two-thirds.

It was Van Camp's, remember, that made evaporated milk so popular. The old-time brands did not.

It is solely because Van Camp's Milk is better that we milk 20,000 cows.

Surprisingly Rich

You'll be surprised at the richness and flavor which Van Camp's gives to a milk dish.

You'll wonder what we have added to make it so good.

But we add nothing at all.

The difference is this: You were cooking before with half-milk. For milkman's milk separates, before and after you get it.

The butter fat rises and the solids fall. So you never get the whole, rich milk.

In Van Camp's you do. You'll never again be content with half-milk when you once cook with Van Camp's.

Not Altered

Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, with two-thirds the water evaporated. Nothing whatever is added. Nothing is subtracted, save water.

It's not a peculiar milk.

It is taken fresh from the cow and evaporated, close to our numerous dairies.

It is sterilized after the can is sealed. So it comes to you as fresh as it leaves us.

The slight almond flavor—apparent only when one drinks the milk cold—is due to sterilization.

For cooking or coffee, Van Camp's tastes exactly the same as raw milk or cream, save for additional richness.

It's Economical

Van Camp's is as thick as thick cream—so thick that you add one part water for coffee. Yet it doesn't cost half what you pay your milkman for cream.

Add two parts water and you have rich milk. The cost of such milk, when you buy Van Camp's by the case, is about six cents per quart.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. For Van Camp's means a cow in your kitchen.

One often spends for Van Camp's Milk about half what she paid the milkman.

Think of buying milk from hand to mouth—buying a half-milk laden with germs—and paying more than one pays for Van Camp's.

Free From Germs

Van Camp's is perfectly sterile.

We milk no tubercular cows. We employ no sickly milkmen.

Our dairies are sanitary. Our creameries, where the milk is evaporated, are built without wood. We make a business of cleanliness.

We employ every means known to science to guard our milk from infection.

Then the milk is pasteurized.

Every drop of raw milk contains a myriad of germs. And those germs are humanity's most terrible foes.

Van Camp's contains none at all. It is safe.

A Warning

Van Camp's is not like condensed milk, which is half sugar. Ours is nothing but milk.

Analysis of Van Camp's shows about 8 per cent of butter fat. That is because we use very rich milk and evaporate two-thirds of the water.

But one may take out much less of the water and still have "evaporated" milk.

So there is need to be careful. Don't think that all milks are alike. Van Camp's costs no more than many brands which cannot begin to compare with it.

You will get the utmost in milk if you insist on Van Camp's.

Van Camp's Milk comes in 5 and 10-cent cans, at your grocer's. It is put up at our dairies, in five states, where we milk 20,000 Holstein cows.

Boston Suffragists Will Parade for Mrs. Pankhurst

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst of England, leader of the militant suffragettes in English politics, otherwise known as suffragists, arrives in Boston at 2:30 to-morrow afternoon and will be met with autos of society ladies here, headed by the English "Votes for Women" flag of blue beside the yellow flag of the American army.

The autos will take Mrs. Pankhurst and her hostesses from the station down to the suffrage headquarters at No. 585 Boylston street, where an informal reception will be given. Large crowds will probably meet the line and attend the automobile procession which will probably come up Summer street, passing along Washington street to Boylston, along which it will move to Copley square, where the distinguished visitor will be met by the officers of the Massachusetts Association for Local Government, the Boston Equal Suffrage Association and the College Equal Suffrage Association.

Boston Women Honored.

Mrs. Pankhurst will spend the day as the guest of Miss Alice Stone Blackwell at her home at No. 45 Boutwell avenue, in Dorchester, and on Friday she will be entertained by Mrs. Harriet H. Page (Mary Huttleson) at No. 17 Hawthorne road, Brookline.

Boston suffragists are gratified to be the first in this country to entertain the noted Englishwoman, who has, perhaps, done most and suffered most for the cause of women in the world. Boston being the home of the renowned Lucy Stone Blackwell, the mother of Miss Blackwell, editor of the Woman's Journal, which is one of the best edited and most wide-awake suffrage papers in America.

Mrs. Pankhurst will address her first American audience at 8 o'clock next Friday evening at Tremont Temple, and on Saturday she will be entertained at luncheon at the Vendome by a number of in formal speeches will be made.

Plans for Coming Year.

More significant perhaps that either of the other meetings at which Mrs. Pankhurst officials will be the annual meeting of the Suffrage Associations at the Boylston street headquarters on Tuesday and Friday when plans for the ensuing year will be discussed.

Mrs. Pankhurst will be present as advisor and will bring her experience in England during the last few years to bear on the country wide suffrage issue in America and will advise the Boston leaders as to the quickest means of getting the franchise in this country.

North Pole Editor:

The time on the North Pole I understand is, is no difference. On September 21, when it is noon at Boston it is 6 p. m. at North Pole. December 22 it is midnight on the Pole when it is noon at Boston. On March 21 its 6 a. m. or morning, on Polo when noon at Boston, and June 21 noon on Pole when noon at Boston. As the sun does not rise for the other six there is but one day and one night during the year.

WATCH ROTATES, TOO.

North Pole Editor:

If you place your watch on the exact spot where the meridians meet, if it is 12 o'clock in Boston, you will always have 12 o'clock at the North Pole, for the reason that the earth rotates and the watch will rotate with it.

ALL THERE BUT THE TAIL

DRESSED in the latest and most improved motor-cycling costume, with goggles all complete, the motor cyclist gayly tootled his way toward the Zoo. Suddenly he slackened, dismounted and said to a small grubby urchin.

"I say, my boy, she I right for the Zoo?"

The boy gasped at so strange a sight and thought it must be some new animal for the gardens.

"You may be all right if they have a spare cage," he said, doubtfully, when he could find his tongue, "but you'd stand a better chanst if you'd only had a tail!"—Answers.

"For those who delight in being close to Nature, for those to whom the picturesque makes strong appeal, for all who wish to escape the heat and confusion of the city, the Fellsway has many attractions. Broad sheets of water sparkle in the sunlight. Placid pools mirror the bordering trees, shrubs and plants. Streams arched with overranging branches ripple among moss-grown stones. Countless birds make music in the treetops. The growth, life and activities of a primitive wilderness are open every hour. This resort is now accessible by our cars to the residents of twelve cities and towns in which this company operates."

The Airship WILL Be a Fighting Machine---Unfortunately

What the Eagle Is to the Weasel the Fighting Airship Will Be to the Old-Fashioned Earth Fighting Machine

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Mr. Hiram Maxim tells the public that the airship will be useful only as a "lookout," a machine to watch the movements of the enemy and report to headquarters. He thinks that the airship will have no value as a fighting machine.

Mr. Maxim, great and wise, is mistaken.

The airship will fight in the wars of the future, fight more efficiently than any machine has ever fought in the world's history—and let us hope, make war so dangerous as t[illegible] an end to it.

The aeroplane and the so-called dirigible gas bag of to-day are very small, feeble things compared with the fighting ships of the future, and the still greater passenger-carrying air craft of the future beyond.

Only recently the chief engineer of the New York Central Railroad was talking about possibilities in airship construction.

He said that it would be easy and not expensive to build an airship as big as the steamship Baltic. Such a ship, filled with the very lightest gas, would be made of a covering divided up into airtight compartments. Just as the modern sea-going ship is divided into watertight compartments, so that if water gets into one compartment the ship still floats, so the big airship of the future will be divided into compartments, so that if one were punctured and the gas escaped, the ship would float none the less, ballast being thrown out to meet the emergency.

This distinguished engineer said that a well-constructed airship the size of the steamship Baltic would be able to carry up a reasonable crew of men AND AT LEAST A HUNDRED TONS OF DYNAMITE.

A big ship sailing high up, practically out of sight, carrying with her two hundred thousand pounds of dynamite, able to drop this fearful explosive, or still more dangerous explosive, anywhere, would indeed be a FIGHTING MACHINE.

Against such a machine the ordinary cannon or fort, or group of soldiers, would have about as much chance as a weasel against an eagle.

There is no doubt that the fighting airship, like every other improvement along the lines of fighting machinery, will tend to diminish war.

AS WAR BECOMES DANGEROUS IT DIMINISHES.

When men fought with pikes, battering rams and sling shots THEY WERE AT WAR ALWAYS. Wars lasted twenty years, fifty years, and even a hundred years. In fact, peace was the exception and war the natural condition of men.

But powder and the bullet came, and then the common fighting man could reach the general or the noble lord who loved war. And he began to love war less.

The rifle and the bullet were democratic machines, they made the steel coat worse than useless.

The fighting airship will be infinitely more powerful than the cannon in its influence upon those that start wars.

The man who begins a war is the King, the Emperor, or perhaps the great money lender, who stays safely at home while others are killed.

THE AIRSHIP WILL BRING WAR AND THE DYNAMITE TO THE MEN THAT START THE WAR. IF DAY AFTER TO-MORROW THE CZAR OF RUSSIA WERE TO START A WAR AGAINST JAPAN, JAPAN COULD SOON SEND A THOUSAND BIG AIRSHIPS TO DROP DYNAMITE DOWN UPON THE CZAR'S PALACE, AND IT WOULDN'T DO HIM ANY GOOD TO GO INTO A HOLE, FOR DYNAMITE EXPLODES DOWNWARD, AND IT WOULD BLOW THE HOLE IN ON TOP OF HIM.

Dynamite will make men who begin wars realize that they must be in the wars whether they will or not. And after a few wars are fought out on the airship basis there will be no more wars.

The fighting airship will be valuable especially to the United States. Our only danger is from fleets made of steel that must cross the ocean to reach us. Let this country build a fleet of a thousand big airships—you could build a hundred for the cost of one Dreadnought. These ships could meet the oncoming fleet, drop explosives on the decks and sink the boats faster than they could be driven across the ocean.

It would not even be necessary to risk human life. For it would be simple to direct the flight of thousands of small aerial torpedo boats, each releasing its small load of dynamite in response to a wireless message sent from the ground, guided by wireless control. No foolish European nation would send a fleet of water surface vessels against this country, knowing that such a fleet would be met with a hail of dynamite from the sky above and would never get to land.

Foreign countries could, of course, attack this nation with fleets of fighting airships. But such fleets would have to cross the Atlantic Ocean or the Pacific Ocean before getting here. They could be met by our war balloons far from shore or met by a swarm of thousands upon thousands of small dynamite carrying air craft without any human crew.

The fighting airship, brutal as it is and dreadful to think of, will be a blessing to civilization. For the fighting airship goes one step further in making victory a matter of brain. And where the brain wins victory there is little war. For real intelligence is as opposed to war as brutality is in favor of it.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

ARE WE POSERS?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

If this little query is worthy, kindly give it space. During the earthquakes in Reggio and vicinity we, the people of the United States, were the first to send assistance. The government at Washington has just turned over the last of the fund—some $10,000—and has received the impressive thanks of the Queen of Italy.

I read the second appeal of Consul-Gen. Hanna at Monterey, Mexico, for aid, at this late date, for the stricken and starving people of Mexico—almost within the boundary of our own domain.

Are we, as a people, posers?

MRS. H. R. CLUM.

WANTS PLAN NO. 1

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I believe in Plan No. 1 to the Boston City Charter.

I believe in a representative form of government—that is, in a Council, as provided for in Plan No. 1, and the election of a Mayor for but two years instead of four years as provided for in Plan No. 2.

As for the convention system, that may be the obstacle in the way, yet it is not so bad but what if it becomes necessary a change can be brought about.

MAX HENRY NEWMAN.

ELBERT HUBBARD'S ARTICLE

Economy in Trade

Especially Written for the Americas

By ELBERT HUBBARD

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

One thing is sure, and that is, evolution is the order of the day in which we live.

Revision is seen on every hand, and in everything. The old being tested, the outworn discarded, the unnecessary eliminated.

Nothing is permanent but change.

But a few years ago the buyer and seller were engaged in battle. It was a fierce and parry, lunge and feint, strike and retreat.

Now the interests of buyer and seller are blended, and we say that the transaction where both sides do not make money is immoral.

The wise merchant of to-day is one who regards himself as the attorney for his customers. He safeguards their interests and his endeavor is ever to protect them from their own errors of judgment. The modern merchant of the first class refuses to supply shoddy even to those who may ask for it. This is a demand he will not supply.

The seller who has not gotten it firmly fixed in the fabric of his mind that the buyer is "his other self" is like unto the employe who imagines that his interests are separate and distinct from those of his employer.

Avarice and selfishness yoked together in trade are headed for the bankruptcy court.

Mutuality is the keystone of success. He who benefits society will get his reward.

In the final accounting, the consumer not only pays for the initial cost of the goods, but for all the expenses of advertising and handling, right down the line.

To reduce the cost to the consumer and better the quality—these are the points that interest the merchant, who sees the handwriting on the wall.

In the fashionable hotels there is one servant for every guest. That is to say, the capacity of the Waldorf-Astoria is six hundred guests.

And it carries a payroll of sixteen hundred employes.

If the hotel runs full, it makes money. If it runs half full, its force of employes is about the same—the fixed charges go on—and your business loses money.

The meal that costs you fifty cents at a third avenue restaurant will cost you two dollars at a Fifth avenue hotel. At the Fifth avenue hotel there is always and forever a waiter fluttering at your elbow, while you read the bill of fare and decide on the momentous gastronomic issue. And this waiter continues to flutter until you go. And over him flutters a head-tical with those of the buyer.

"You have an enormous appetite," said a thin man enviously.

"What do you take for it?"

"In all my experience," rep lied his plump friend, "I have found nothing more suitable than food."

The Diary of a Mountain Climber

By WEX JONES

I THINK there would be a good sale for a book called "The Roof of the Hemisphere." Must get up an expedition to climb Mt. Roosevelt.

Practicing climbing every day. Went up six flights of stairs this morning and was quite fresh when I reached the top. So was the elevator man. He thought my action was intended as a reflection on the way he run his car. Friends doubted that I had walked all the way up, so I gave some records to a boy and told him to go up and find them on the sixth floor. The Stair-Climbers' Society quite satisfied with the proofs.

Have gone on to more difficult training stunts. Climbed up the outside of a house last night. The members of the Porch Climbers' Club cust some doubt upon my achievement, but I showed them a silver toilet set I had taken, and they passed a resolution giving me the freedom of any second story to which I could ascend.

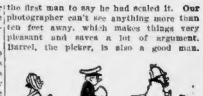
Rapidly rounding into condition. Climbed up Bunker Hill Monument this morning and the State House dome this evening. Accomplished this unattended, and provided only with an icepick and a pair of rubber boots.

Now ready for the Roof of the Hemisphere. For packer I have hired Water Barrel, who has run a delicatessen store in Chelsea for the last seventeen years, and therefore possesses ideal qualifications for the task. As photographer I have engaged a short-sighted man named Smith, so that our little expedition is now as perfectly manned as could be. Barrel showed his skill as a packer to-day by packing three cheese sandwiches, three large dill pickles, some potato salad, a loaf of rye bread and three slices of ham all in one small paper bag.

We are rapidly approaching the base of the mountain. It looks much higher than I expected, but I am resolved to be



He doesn't know a mountain from a street excavation. Have sent the photographer back to Seattle for more plates, as we broke most of our crockery on the way from the steamer. Barrel and I will make the ascent alone.

Climbed 870 feet up the mountain yesterday. When we got to that elevation I asked Barrel if he felt tired. He said no, but I told him he did feel tired, and that he had better roll back down the hill. He left me this morning, and now I am about to scale the Roof of the Hemisphere with no companions but a quart of beans.

Surrounded by dazzling ochre snows and pale, sinister ice. I stand alone upon Mt. Roosevelt, the highest peak of the continent. What feelings surge over me as I reflect that I have reached the goal of the ages and that Aldermen will give me framed resolutions and the freedom of the free-lunch counters. But I must hasten back and convince Barrel that he was at the summit with me.

Home again. Barrel declares that he was not at the top with me, and the photographer says my best views were taken in the studio with a drop scene from the Midnight Suns. But 4 have foiled them. Have given out a statement that I surled my records under Mt. Roosevelt. I guess that will take a bit of digging up.

"If you'd assume a more genial manner you'd get along better in business."

"Not! I tried it once, and everybody I met wanted to borrow money."
